Begin Self-Denial Aid-Europe Drive

By WILLIAM UMSTEAD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (INS)—The United States today embarked on the stiffest self-denial program in its peacetime history with meatless Tuesdays and egg less and poultryless Thursdays to help feed Europe.

This strict food conservation drive was launched by President Truman who also asked the American people to eat one less slice of bread every day.

The President also called upon the nation's distillers to stop making whisky completely for 60 days, and demanded that the major grain exchanges raise their margin requirements on futures trading under threat of federal action.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the citizens' food committee, said the meatless, eggless and poultryless days should continue for "the duration of this emergency."

He recently estimated the emergency would last from four to 10 months.

AIMS AT PRICES

Mr. Truman emphasized that voluntary co-operation of the American people in the food conservation program is essential to bring down high food prices at home as well as to furnish more "stop-gap" aid to Europe.

Restaurants and other public eating places have joined in the food saving drive and will serve bread and butter at meals only upon request of their patrons.

The baking industry also is taking steps to save grain in the manufacture and distribution of bread. Luckman estimated the industry could save 10 per cent, or 3,000,000 bushels of wheat a month.

The President announced that the White House, all government restaurants and cafeterias, and the armed forces have been directed to comply with the conservation program. The Navy immediately complied by reimposing wartime conservation measures.

CALLS ON FARMERS

In addition, he said the nation's farmers must co-operate by reducing the amount of grain they

TRUMAN FOOD PLAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (INS)—Here is President Truman's "simple and straight forward program" of voluntary self-denial for the American people:

"1—Use no meat on Tuesdays.

"2—Use no poultry or eggs on Thursdays.

"3—Save a slice of bread every day.

"4—Public eating places will serve bread and butter only on request."

Food-Saving Program

By the Associated Press

Here are the sacrifices President Truman and Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens Food Committee, urged on specific segments of the population in their White House appeals:

THE PUBLIC—(a) Meatless Tuesdays, (b) poultryless and eggless Thursdays and (c) the saving of one slice of bread a day by every American.

PUBLIC EATING PLACES—(a) Co-operation in the meatless, poultryless and eggless days campaign and (b) the serving of bread and butter only when patrons ask for them.

GRAIN EXCHANGES — An increase to at least one-third of their down payment, or margin, requirements on grain purchases.

DISTILLERS — A complete 60-day shutdown at the earliest possible moment.

BREWERS—A greater cut in grain consumption than they promised Saturday night, when two industry groups agreed to recommend that breweries stop using wheat and turn loose stocks they have on hand.

BAKERS—Unspecified grain-saving measures, both in manufacture and distribution of bread.

FARMERS—A reduction in the amount of grain fed to livestock and poultry.

Prelates Extol Holy Name's Hub Demonstration of Faith

With the 7000 delegates from all parts of the nation, Canada and the Antipodes homeward bound today with the plaudits of millions still ringing in their ears, prelates of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in America and leaders in all walks of life extolled those who participated in the greatest mass demonstration of faith ever witnessed in Boston.

Climaxing the fourth annual national convention of the Holy Name Society, more than 130,000 members of the organization marched for eight hours through downtown streets, with 75 symbolic floats and to the music of 100 bands, acclaimed by an estimated 3,500,000 spectators who jammed the route.

Led by Abp. Richard J. Cushing in his purple robes and by a delegation of Dominican monks, the religious order which founded the Holy Name Society nearly 700 years ago, bareheaded and clad in white cassocks and black mantles, the parade started at 10:30 a. m. from Beacon and Hereford sts., Back Bay, and continued over the two and one-half mile route until 6:30 p. m.

HUB PARISHES ASSIST

Every one of the 360 parishes of the Boston archdiocese was strongly represented among the thousands who marched for Christianity. The thunderous tribute to Abp. Cushing all along the route was one of the highlights of the inspiring spectacle. Particularly impressive was the tribute paid him by the children.

The happy youngsters defied ropes, policemen, marchers and all other obstacles in a rush to the archbishop's side to kiss his ring. He was greatly touched by their expression of affection.

From the moment the crowds caught sight of Abp. Cushing, marching behind the silk-hatted staff and the U. S. Marine Band, the applause rose and fell continuously. Smiling and doffing his biretta, the Archbishop acknowledged their plaudits.

HONOR ARCHBISHOP

On reaching the reviewing stand, the staff parted ranks to form a guard of honor, and the Archbishop, and Bishop Wright who followed him, mounted the reviewing stand where Sens. Lodge and Saltonstall, Gov. Bradford, Mayor Hynes and other dignitaries greeted him.

There the Archbishop stood at attention for nearly three hours as members of the Holy Name Society, marching 16 abreast, moved by wave after wave, accom-

Held as Killer Of Neighbor's Young Wife

LOWELL, Oct. 6—William H. Caselden, 215-pound Billerica father, was held without bail today after pleading not guilty in district court to the murder of tiny Mrs. Roberta Coy Dunn, 24, 80-pound neighbor, whose body was found in Caselden's cellar, half covered with a rug, Friday, by her husband and brother.

Judge Richard B. Walsh continued the case to Oct. 14 at the request of State Police Lt. Daniel I. Murphy, who said police have a 20-page confession from Caselden but do not believe it is the whole story.

MRS. ROBERTA COY DUNN

The state charges Caselden, a 45-year-old six-footer, not only killed Mrs. Dunn but accomplished it after crafty premeditation.

The alleged confession in the hands of state police attributes to him the statement he remembered striking her but remembered nothing after that.

Caselden was removed to East Cambridge jail. Meanwhile Middlesex Dist. Atty. George E. Thompson prepared to go before the grond jury at once to ask for a murder indictment.

COURTHOUSE GUARDED

In view of the murder's hideous aspects, police had been prepared to set up an unusually large courthouse guard for Caselden's protection but there was no sign of disorder, although the courtroom was well filled. Women spectators predominated.

According to State Police Lt. James Conniff, Caselden broke down after many hours of questioning and confessed he killed Mrs. Dunn shortly before noon Thursday, 24 hours before her body was found in his house.

However, state detectives are checking the 20-page confession in the belief the whole story has not yet been told and the victim was lured into her neighbor's house to be ravished and strangled.

Caselden was expected to wear for his court appearance today a gray pencil-stripe suit sent to his cell at Concord Barracks of the State Police by his faithful wife, Lillian, a waitress. She is staying at the home of her mother in Ellingwood ave., Billerica, with her children, William, 5, and Cindy, 3.

She was not at home on the morning of the murder, having left earlier with the children to go to the home of her mother.

Shocked at news of her husband's confession that followed 36 hours of questioning, she declared:

Mrs. Lillian Caselden, wife of the alleged murderer, was staying at the Ellingwood ave., Billerica, home of her mother, where she took her children, a five-year-old boy and a girl of three.

She had not been at home the morning of the murder, nor when the body was found, having gone to her mother's with the children Wednesday night. Still loyal to her husband, she said:

"I cannot believe he did it. It is true he had his faults, but he is not a murderer. He was wonderful to his children.

"If he did this crazy thing, I mean if he killed her, he could not have been in his right mind. I know he did not violate that little girl. He wouldn't do anything like that. He was never vicious."

She promised to get "the best lawyer in Lowell" to defend her husband.

While the law was taking its first steps toward enacting justice in the form of murder charges pressed against the jobless milkman, the family of the slain housewife prepared to pay a final and sad tribute.

Friends viewed her casket, sealed because her comely features were battered and distorted in death, and waited at the Perry funeral home in Billerica for the rites, due to be held at 2 p. m. Burial was to be in Fox Hill Cemetery, Billerica.

Roberta was due to be buried beside a stillborn child, only issue of her marriage on Dec. 7, 1945, to Frank "Red" Dunn, 27, a decorated veteran of World War II, who was at work in the mess hall at Bedford Veterans' Hospital when the slaying occurred.

The birth occurred about a year ago and the frail young wife had been in impaired health since.

Lt. Conniff and other detectives who took part in the lengthy interrogation of Caselden were frankly skeptical of much of his alleged confession.

He was quoted as saying he asked her first for a cigaret, then for a dollar, and when she refused him cash he struck her in a rage, then dragged her body into his cellar.

Overell Girl Has New Beau, Snubs 'Bud' After Acquittal

By JAMES PADGITT

SANTA ANA, Cal., Oct. 6 (INS)—Beulah Louise Overell and George R. "Bud" Gollum, their torrid romance at an end, went their separate ways today following their acquittal on murder charges.

The chubby heiress cast off her husky college-boy lover mere moments after the jury found them not guilty of murdering the girl's rich parents, the Walter E. Overells.

The break, suspected for some time, came into the open when the girl, just freed, shot back a blunt "no" when asked whether she was going to marry Gollum.

Even in the jubilation of their shared victory, she completely ignored him.

When photographers suggested the young couple kiss, Louise turned away, then rejected a proferred handshake from her ex-lover. She consented to pose for a picture however, with Atty. Z. B. West between them

Later, at a party given for newsmen by her attorney, Otto A. Jacobs, the heiress disclosed she had a new romance and asserted she was "definitely through" with Gollum.

HIDES IDENTITY

She refused to reveal the identity of her new heart interest, said only that she knew him before "I was put in jail."

Mrs. Overell Walter E. Overell

There was a roar of approval from the crowd late yesterday as the court clerk, having been handed the verdicts by Jury Foreman J. A. Porter, read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, George Rector Gollum, not guilty of the murder of Walter E. Overell."

Pandemonium broke loose when the second verdict, clearing the 21-year-old youth of the murder of Mrs. Overell, was read.

Both Judge Kenneth E. Morrison and the bailiff were ignored in their efforts to restore order.

Miss Overell sat tensely waiting to hear her fate. She relaxed and gave a sigh of relief when the verdicts acquitting her were read.

Gollum, confident of acquittal throughout the long trial which began May 26, turned and looked triumphantly at his mother and stepfather, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Stomel, and his sister, Wilafred.

TEARS FLOW

There was a brief emotional scene when one of the women jurors, gray-haired Mrs. Yvonne Wagner, rushed up to Miss Overell and embraced her. Tears welled in the girl's eyes as Mrs. Wagner put her arm around her and said:

"I'm so glad!"

A poll of the six men and six women jurors brought out that the heiress and premedical student Gollum were never in danger of being found guilty.

The first ballot stood seven for acquittal, four for guilty, and one not voting. By Saturday night, it was 11 for acquittal.

Finally Mrs. Ida Fisher of Anaheim, mother of two grown children and wife of a retired contractor, voted not guilty.

Clark Reveals Red Drive To Sign Students at Once

The Communist party is quietly conducting a drive to sign up young men and women students in American colleges and universities this month.

This was revealed today by Atty.-Gen. Tom C. Clark, who warned that the drive by Reds to enlist American youth into its official organization is aimed at all the nation's youth but with emphasis on the student bodies of higher institutions of learning.

U. S. ATTY. TOM CLARK
Blasts Reds In Speech Here

Clark, head of the U. S. Dept. of Justice, termed it "unfortunate that a group in the United States has dedicated the month of October for recruiting the youth of this country." He added:

"We don't believe in the Communistic ideology, and as long as I am your attorney general I shall do all in my power to see that our own American ideology survives.

"It is the grave responsibility of you who are being taught and you who teach, to safeguard against this sort of movement."

APPEALS TO FACULTY

Speaking at the dedication of Northeastern University's $1,150,000 Student Center, he called upon faculty members of Northeastern and all Greater Boston educational institutions to guard against foreign ideologies by developing in students a keener interest in American government.

He reiterated his contention that the right to believe in Communism is not included among American civil rights.

The chief law enforcement officer of the nation told his listeners he was "astounded" to learn that half of the adults in this country have no church affiliation and he was equally astounded to learn that 68 per cent of the children in some of our large cities have no church affiliation and do not even know the Ten Commandments.

To that end he called for a closer alliance between religion and interest in general affairs of the community, and for a rededication in religion.

FAVORS FOOD AID

Touching briefly then on international affairs and aid to less fortunate countries overseas, he said:

"You can't have half the world starved and half the world fed, because it will lead to a world of strife."

President Carl S. Ell of the university made the dedication address and other speakers included Speaker of the House Frederick B. Willis, who brought the Commonwealth's greetings; the Acting Mayor John B. Hynes with the city's greetings.

9-Nation Red Comintern Set Up to Balk U. S. Aims

By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, Oct. 6 (INS)—A new Comintern formed by the Communist parties of nine European countries called on the world revolutionary movement today to lead a struggle against the "establishment of world domination by American imperialism."

The new Comintern declared its aim will be to smash the Truman doctrine and the Marshall plan as constituent parts of "United States world expansion."

The Communist chiefs also named as targets the countries, notably Britain and France, which support the United States.

A communique published in Pravda poured invective on "right-wing Socialist leaders." Named were Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin of Great Britain, former Premier Leon Blum of France, President Karl Renner of Austria; Guiseppe Saragat, Italian Socialist leader; and Dr. Karl Schumacher, head of the German Social Democrats.

CENTER IN BELGRADE

The new organization, officially described as an information bureau, will have its permanent headquarters in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

It was formed at the end of September somewhere in Poland by two representatives each from the Communist parties of Russia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, France and Italy.

It will issue a bi-monthly bulletin in French, Russian and other languages.

The new Comintern is the first revolutionary organization to which the Communist party of Russia has publicly acknowledged support since the Third International (Comintern) was disbanded in May, 1943.

Russia sent two members of its Politburo, both close advisers to Premier Stalin, to the Poland meeting. They were Col. Gen. Andrei A. Zhadanov and Georgi M. Malenkov.

RESOLVE RAPS U. S.

The communique said Zhadanov reported on the international situation. The adoption of a resolution assailing the "dollar imperialism" of the U. S. and its socialistic "lackeys" followed.

The resolution said the Soviet Union and the democratic countries fought World War II to destroy Fascism and to achieve lasting cooperation between the nations of Europe.

Renew Lake Search for Anne Straw

HOLDERNESS, N. H., Oct. 6 (AP)—A diver went to the bottom of Little Squam Lake today in a renewed attempt to discover the whereabouts of Anne Straw, wealthy 20-year-old Smith College senior, who has been missing since the night of July 21.

A friend of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ellis straw of Manchester, the girl's family, said the search of the pond, where the pretty blonde was last seen, was renewed to cover a broader area of the lake before winter weather freezes the surface.

The friend, who requested his name not be used, said the Straws made arrangements for the search because they would "feel more satisfied" if a greater area of the lake was covered than in previous attempts.

The family friend said the Straws still held to the belief Anne was alive. They felt she might return to start her senior year at Smith, he said, but when she did not appear, they decided to search the lake again. Straw is president of a Manchester bank.

Miss Straw disappeared from the family summer camp and authorities sai dthey believed she might have taken a midnight swim alone. Her white bathing suit, a flashlight and an inner tube were found on the lake shore near the camp.

Children's Circus Aids Red Cross

ARDMORE, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Nine-year-old Norma Cipriano had a lot of fun at the day camp sponsored by the American Red Cross and she wanted to show her gratitude.

She and two eight-year-old friends presented a backyard circus for the neighborhood youngsters, charging a penny admission for tight-rope, trapeze and other acts. Parents helped by serving refreshments.

6 Pastors Join Ship Picket Line

Six ministers, five Episcopalian and one Baptist, conferred with company and union representatives today and then joined the picket line of shipyard workers in the fourth month of their strike against the Simpson Dry Dock, Marginal st., East Boston, subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel Co.

The Rev. Kenneth Hughes of St. Bartholomew's Church, Cambridge, acting as spokesman for the group, said the ministers had come to see justice done, had heard arguments of both sides and had decided the union deserved their sympathy. The striking workers are members of Local 25, Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, CIO.

In the picket line for three hours with the Rev. Mr. Hughes were the Rev. Joseph Fletcher, professor at the Episcopalian Theological School, Cambridge; the Rev. Samuel Garrett, a student at the school; the Rev. Robert Muir, St. James Episcopal Church, Somerville; the Rev. Walter J. McKenna, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Roxbury, and the Rev. Horse's Kick Puts Girl in Hospital

Kicked in the head by a horse that threw her during a morning canter in Middlesex Fells, Lillian Longarini, 15, of Governor's ave., Medford, was in Lawrence Memorial Hospital today with a possible skull fracture.

The girl was riding with friends when her horse bolted on a bridle path and tossed her. As she started to get up, one of the animals hooves struck her on the side of the head. She is the daughter of Mrs. Laura A. Longarini.

Garage Man Held In Attack on Wife Of Naval Officer

William L. Robinson, 23, of Somerville ave., Somerville, garage mechanic accused by the wife of a Cambridge naval officer of attacking her, was ordered held in $5000 by Judge Arthur P. Stone in East Cambridge court today for hearing Oct. 20.

Robinson pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Marguerite E. Bailey, 40, wife of Lt. Russell E. Bailey, USN, of Forest st., Cambridge.

Mrs. Bailey, reported in critical condition in Mt. Auburn Hospital with a fractured skull, had told police that the mechanic had attacked her in an Oxford st., Cambridge, garage, where her car was being repaired.

As a result of her story, Robinson was arrested at his home. Later he was taken to Mrs. Bailey's hospital bedside, where, police said, she identified him. Robinson flatly denied the accusation but was booked on the assault charge.

HE SAYS SHE FELL

In denying the charge, Robinson told officials of going to the garage to work on Mrs. Bailey's car, and said she accidentally fell out of the car, striking her head on the concrete floor.

He said he picked up the unconscious woman and carried her to her first-floor apartment, where her daughter, Louise, 18, student at Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School, summoned a physician.

Louise said Robinson told her Mrs. Bailey was pulling the hood release under the dashboard, when she lost her balance and fell through the open door on the driver's side.

HUSBAND HURRIES HOME

Dr. Donald Currier of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, attended the injured woman at her home and ordered her immediate removal to the hospital. There her name was placed on the danger list after examination disclosed a fracture at the base of the skull. Her face was also bruised.

Lt. Bailey, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., was just leaving for Florida under orders when Red Cross officials notified him of his wife's condition. He obtained emergency leave and is en route home to be at her bedside.

Robinson, a graduate of Rindge Technical High School, was bailed by his wife, Elizabeth, 21.

Slayer Kills Self as Posse Closes In

CHESTER, S. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—A 32-year-old Negro, questioned in the "lovers lane" slaying of a white man, blew his head off with a shotgun early today while 200 officers and several hundred citizens assembled near-by, Sheriff William H. Peden reported.

Peden said the negro, Dave Dunham, a farmer "undoubtedly" was the assailant who beat to death Clarence Wallis, 22-year-old war veteran, last night.

Wallis was slain while he fought valiantly to permit the escape of his attractive girl friend, Betsy Ross, from a negro who had accosted them, Sheriff Peden said.

Peden said the negro struck Wallis a terrific blow on the head and then dragged the girl from the car by the throat. Wallis recovered sufficiently to grapple with the attacker after shouting to the girl to "run," the sheriff related.

He said Miss Ross was hysterical when she was taken to a hospital, but otherwise she was not seriously injured.

Police called at the home of Dunham, who, Chandler said, previously had served a term for murder. As they questioned the Negro about last night's slaying, the chief reported, Dunham ran from his house and seized a shotgun.

As the officers prepared to close in Dunham shot himself.

Columnist Insists Charges Against Gen. Lee Sustained

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Columnist Robert C. Ruark declared today that despite an "attempted whitewash" by the inspector general, all of his charges about extravagant living of officers and shabby treatment of enlisted men in the Italian theater "have stood up."

The Scripps-Howard writer said Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, who investigated for the chief of staff after a series of articles by Ruark, "tripped and fell flat over enough unburied evidence to force Gen. Eisenhower to take action on several marked abuses."

Wyche reported to Eisenhower that he found only minor discrepancies and irregularities in the Italian theater under Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee and that the Ruark stories gave a wholly erroneous picture of overall conditions.

Eisenhower made the report public Friday along with a memorandum of his own acknowledging errors in the command and saying he was taking action to correct them.

Eisenhower said the errors were "the exception rather than the rule and in no case could be traced to wrong intent on the part of the theater commander."

Ruark devoted his column for today, which was made available by the Scripps-Howard newspapers, to his comment.

"PITIFUL EFFORT"

"Lefthandedly," he said, "in Wyche's pitiful effort to sidestep the truth, all the charges have stood up."

He said Eisenhower's statement "knocks the Wyche report cranksided" and that the chief of staff had agreed with Ruark on five points:

1—"I said that things were pretty awful in the disciplinary training camp at Pisa. So does Gen Eisenhower."

Eisenhower's statement said minor offenders had been incarcerated where contact with criminal offenders was possible, a "serious mistake," and that daily routine of prisoners was of a very severe order, "far more than justified."

2—"I said enlisted men had been blackjacked into joining a purely political organization. So does Gen. Eisenhower."

Eisenhower's statement spoke of "undue pressure exercised by commanders to induce subordinates to join fraternal organizations." The Wyche report had referred to "the Fellowship of U. S.-British Comrades," created to foster comradeship between members of the two armed forces.

3—"I said that the Army had broken many of its postwar promises to the enlisted men. So does Gen. Eisenhower."

BLAMES ARMY

Wyche reported the only instances of broken promises to enlisted men were those of soldiers who had enlisted for areas other than the Mediterranean but had been sent to that theater because of the Army's shortage of recruits. Eisenhower said this was a fault of the Army instead of Lee's command and that he would take steps to "follow up on it."

4—"I charged unfairness and instability in bringing service dependents to Italy. Gen. Eisenhower agrees."

Eisenhower said the principal cause of this situation was failure of the War Department to explain to personnel the reasons for changes in orders and policies necessitated by conditions in Italy.

"I charged abuse of enlisted chauffeurs. Gen. Eisenhower admits it."

Eisenhower said the practice of requiring chauffeurs "to wait unconscionably long hours to suit the social convenience of the officers" seems to be an offense "of an occasional rather than of a general nature."

Summing up his reaction to the affair, Ruark said today:

"There was so much justified fuss made over my charges—so much confirmation both within and outside the papers I write for, by hundred of people—that everywhere today the Army's solicitude for its hired help has greatly increased."

He added that "as far as I'm concerned the case rests."

Bandits Tie 10 Victims, Get $4000 at Club

AMBLER, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP)—Four masked gunmen terrorized and robbed 10 residents at the Oak Terrace country club today, fleeing with a loot of at least $4000.

Using telephone wires, neckties and bathrobe cords, they trussed up seven men and three women after rounding them up in a room-to-room tour of the clubhouse. Clarence Grieb, club manager, told police the club's front door is never locked as a convenience to members who live there and that the four men had no difficulty entering.

Registrar King Warns Of Night-Driving Danger

It's not so much the creams you slap on your face, nor the facial massage, nor the color of your makeup that keeps you attractive, ladies.

No, it's your attitude toward life. If you're bored, you're old.

So declared the amazingly youthful Ina Claire, distinguished actress, in her special article "How I Stay Young," to be published in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Don't miss this valuable article by a woman who amazes her stage colleagues and the theater public with her verve and energy.

Food Saving

Luckman said he expects the brewing industry, which already has agreed to eliminate the use of wheat and top grades of rice in beer production, "to make new proposals for substantially increased savings."

First reaction to the President's program came from the National Meat Industry Council in New York, which said meatless Tuesdays actually might increase consumption and called instead for restoration of price controls on livestock.

In announcing the meatless days program such as the nation followed in World War I, the President declared many Americans "are overeating and wasting food." He added:

INFLATION PERIL

"Unless these people cut their consumption in the ways required, they will be taking more than their fair share of the supplies available. They will be personally contributing to increased inflation at home and to the desperate scarcity of food overseas."

He declared the cost of living in the United States "must not be a football kicked about by gamblers in grain" in declaring the margin requirements on futures trading must be raised.

The Chief Executive pulled no punches in warning that the government "may find it necessary to limit the amount of trading" unless the commodity exchanges boost margin requirements to 33 1-3 per cent, or almost double present rates.

Two Policemen Accused Of Winking at Dice Game

SMITHFIELD, R. I., Oct. 6 (AP)—Police Chief Joseph Colura, Jr., suspended two patrolmen after they had failed, he said, to suppress a "wide open" dice game.

Chief Colura said he suspended Leon Mowry and Warren Manchester after a police sergeant had found them sitting in their car 50 yards from a game at an outing. The chief said he believed the gamblers to be the ones who were held up in Boston recently.

Gem Theft Victim Gets Death Threat

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Sari G. Hilton, beautiful estranged wife of a hotel magnate, who reported a daring kid-gloved bandit had robbed her of approximately $600,000 worth of jewelry in her penthouse apartment, told police a telephone caller had warned her to "keep your mouth shut, or else."

Police said the caller did not identify himself. A 12-state alarm was issued in an effort to apprehend the bandit and recover the gems.

A second caller, said Mrs. Coleman Drowne, gödmother of Mrs. Hilton's 6-month-old daughter, Constance, told the robbery victim:

"Meet me and I'll tell you where your jewels are."

China Storms Halt 2 U. S. Round-the-World Fliers

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6 (AP)—Two Americans piloting cub planes on a round-the-world flight were prevented by strong headwinds from taking off from Amoy today for Shanghai. Reports reaching here said they planned to leave tomorrow.

Sixty-mile-an-hour headwinds forced the airmen, George Truman of Los Angeles, and Clifford V. Evans of Washington, D. C., to land at Amoy yesterday after taking off from Hong Kong. The leisurely global flight started at Teterboro, N. J., Aug. 10.

Ex-GI Pupils Face Jobless Pay Halt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Veterans Administration said today it would stop all unemployments to former students who received too much money while going to school under the GI bill and decline to pay it back.

The agency ruled recently that war veterans may not re-enter schools or job-training this fall under the GI bill unless they make good such overpayments.

The VA estimated that half a million veterans have been over paid almost $50,000,000, but sai this is being repaid at the rat of $5,000,000 a month.

Purple Heart Joes Scorn Charity in Appeal for Jobs

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The GI's greatest fear in World War II was that of being maimed and unable to live a normal life in his community, Maj. Gen. Robert M. Webster declared in an appeal to New York employers to provide employment for 3100 Purple Heart Joes who are without jobs.

Webster, commanding general of the First Air Force at Fort Slocum, was principal speaker at a rally in Columbus Circle sponsored by the Jobs for Disabled Veterans Committee.

The rally also marked the opening of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, which aims to find work for more than 1,000,000 handicapped Americans, including 120,000 veterans.

"These men don't want charity," Gen. Webster emphasized. "They merely want a chance to earn their own way and stand as useful members of society."

Like others who addressed the crowd, Webster said he was shocked when he learned it had become necessary to hold such a rally.

Jack Denove, chairman of the local veterans job-finding committee, a group of volunteers from advertising, promotion and radio fields, said New York city had the worst record in the nation in finding training jobs for disabled veterans.

Other speakers included Dr. Robert A. Love, of the City College School of Business, and Robert K. Harris, 27, former mining engineer who, because of injuries received at Anzio and Salerno, was compelled to give up his career and start over again in the insurance business.

Meanwhile, Industrial Commr. Edward Corsi announced that 98 officers of the New York State Employment Service would concentrate this week on stimulating employers' interest in hiring handicapped workers.

Boy Faces Court In Shooting Stunt

WEBSTER, Oct. 6—Police said today a 16-year-old local youth would be arraigned on juvenile delinquency charges in court here Thursday in the "big shot" shooting of a 15-year-old boy at a party.

The victim, Henry Marcinczyk of Eastern ave., is expected to recover. He is in Webster Hospital, where a .32-caliber slug was removed from his chest.

According to Patrolman John McAusland, the two boys were at a house party given by a 16-year-old girl living in Foster st. The older boy was allegedly carrying a revolver.

Police said he admitted inserting a single bullet in the cylinder and telling the younger boy he was going to shot him. He spun the cylinder and, believing the chamber with the bullet was away from the firing pin pulled the trigger, police said.

"Take my word for it, brother—that collar will fit as comfortably after it's washed as it does now! And you don't have to worry about buttons popping off your chest every time you inhale! They're anchored—but good! The wife tells me that Bond makes these shirts in their own factories—controls the workmanship from cutting room to counter. No wonder they look so handsome and wear so well! Bond controls the price too . . . We think 2.95 is something sensational in this day of dizzy prices! Dual Tribute to Heroes Arranged

"Lest we forget," a memorial tribute to Massachusetts war heroes, the dead of World War II, will be held with impressive patriotic exercises in the Boston Arena and on Boston Common on Sunday, Oct. 19.

Plans for this memorial, which will include a military procession to the Arena in which all the armed services will participate, followed announcement by the War Dept. that the first return of the bodies of New England war dead from cemeteries in the Pacific area is scheduled for next Friday in San Francisco, and from the European area in New York, Oct. 26.

STARTS AT 2 P. M.

With the co-operation of the Hearst newspapers in Boston, veteran and civic organizations and leaders of all religious groups will participate in the tribute to those who gave their lives for their country, and whose bodies are coming home to rest.

The impressive military procession will start at 2 p. m. on Sunday, the 19th, forming at the South Armory, Irvington st., Back Bay, and proceeding along Huntington and Massachusetts aves., to the Arena in St. Botolph st., for the indoor service at 3 p. m.

Tickets to the memorial service in the Arena may be obtained starting next Friday at the Boston Arena, Boston Garden and the City of Boston Veterans' Office at the Buddies' Club on Boston Common. Out-of-towners may obtain tickets by mailing their request, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Memorial Editor, Box 228, Boston, Mass. All are requested to apply for tickets as soon as they are available.

CROWLEY IS CHAIRMAN

The military procession to the Arena will be headed by units from Army, Navy, Marine Corps and the Massachusetts National Guard, followed by past commanders of military organizations throughout Boston's Metropolitan area, with their colors and color guards.

John D. Crowley, Sr., member of the Cambridge board of health and former national commander of the American Legion's "40 and 8," has been selected by Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes as chairman of the committee on arrangements for the Arena services.

Chief usher at the Arena will be Col. Ralph W. Robart, also of Cambridge, past national commander of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, and holder of the Distinguished Service Cross from World War I.

Leaders of all religious faiths will participate in the exercises. Judge Francis J. Good of the superior court has been named chairman of the program committee.

Freedom Week Rite Opened Here

Boston's observance of Rededication Week, to be climaxed with the arrival of the Freedom Train on Saturday, was opened today with exercises at the Granary Burying Ground, where Mayor Hynes placed wreaths on the tombs of three signers of the Declaration of Independence who are buried there.

The Mayor accompanied by John A. Breen, chairman of the Rededication Week committee, and Peter J. Cloherty, acting director of public celebrations, paid tribute to the founders of our nation by dectorating the graves of John Hancock, Samuel Adams and Robert Treat Paine.

Tomorrow the Advertising Club of Boston at its weekly meeting at the Hotel Statler will add its quota to the week set aside for rededication to the ideals of Americanism.

The first major address on the opening of the week's festivities will be delivered at that meeting by Cong. John W. McCormack, Democratic whip, who played a major role in the prosecution of the war.

MORE GROUPS JOIN

Meanwhile, the names of many more civic, fraternal, social and veteran organizations throughout Greater Boston have been added to the imposing list of groups which already have signified their intention of joining the impressive patriotic procession Sunday on the historic parade ground of Boston Common.

The procession, according to the general committee, will be the most truly democratic, American manifestation of its kind ever seen here.

Simultaneous with the Advertising Club luncheon, as part of the opening ceremonies, a 30-minute service will be held at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow at the Old South Meeting House.

Behind the luncheon head table will be the Colonial Color Guard of the Sons of the American Revolution, clad in costumes of that day and acting as honor guard for the republic's six original flags, including the famous Betsy Ross Flag.

The Freedom Train, touring the country with such priceless documents as the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, will be open for inspection at North Station Saturday from the moment it arrives until 10 p. m. At that time it will be moved to South Station, where it will again be opened to the public from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Sunday.

YEAR-LONG PROGRAM

Rededication Week, set aside for renewal of pledges to the American way of life, is part of a year-long program conducted by the American Heritage Foundation, sponsored by U. S. Atty. Gen. Tom Clark and endorsed by President Truman. Trustees of the foundation include Philip Murray, president of the CIO; William Green, head of the AFL, and Charles Luckman, president of Lever Brothers.

Capping the Greater Boston celebration will be a four-pronged parade converging on Boston Common under the direction of Brig. Gen. William H. Harrison, adjutant-general of the State National Guard.

K. C. Battles Reds In California

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6—Opening of a Southern California campaign against Communism and other subversive ideologies was announced by the Knights of Columbus.

State Deputy James I. Prince, at a meeting of 50 Southern California councils and state officers instructed grand knights to establish in each council a special committee to investigate "any book, film, broadcast or individual attacking our way of life." The committees will then recommend to each council the best means of combating subversive elements.

"It is the responsibility of all God-loving people today to seek out and expose Communists and other subversives wherever they may find them," Prince said.

Ohio GOP Planning Taft Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Ohio Republicans were reported ready today to raise $750,000 for a "home grown" campaign to get Sen. Taft the Republican presidential nomination.

His announcement that he will be a candidate is expected at a meeting of the State GOP central committee Oct. 24 in Columbus.

As soon as Taft agrees to become the state's favorite son at the national convention next June in Philadelphia, his campaign backers will signal for action all along the political front. They say their efforts will be financed almost exclusively with Ohio money.

Taft's decision to run, on the basis of a six-state Western tour he ended Sunday, was regarded as such a foregone conclusion that plans are said to be well advanced for an active drive on his behalf.

Fingerprints Found On Looted Safe Checked

Fingerprints found on a 1600-pound safe taken from the office of the Boston Regional Produce Market in Concord ave., Cambridge, and looted of an estimated $2200, were being checked today as possible clues to the identity of the thieves.

The empty safe was found in the yard in rear of the market. Police believe the thieves were about to haul it away on a truck when they discovered the door of the safe was unlocked.

"If it's from The Continental, It's Dependable"

Yes, gentlemen, the full meaning of our famous slogan is once again just what it says. During a war it is impossible to boast of quality and dependability of civilian merchandise — for then guns, planes and ships are of first concern. Now that peace has come to America, we insist upon and deliver the kind of high quality clothing and haberdashery for which we are justly renowned.

U. S. Approval of Palestine Split Forecast by Zionists

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Zionist circles were reported confident today that the United States would endorse an 11-member United Nations Commission majority report calling for partition of Palestine into sovereign Jewish and Arab countries. There still was no official U. S. comment.

Partition, bitterly opposed by the Arabs, has been accepted by the Jewish agency for Palestine "in sadness and most reluctatnly."

Most Zionists hope for partition in the knowledge they cannot have all of Palestine. The Arabs have threatened to use force in the evetn of defeat of their proposal for immediate independence of Palestine with its 2 to 1 Arab poulation majority intact.

American sources maintained a strict silence on State Sec. Marshall's plans and would not even confirm the date of the forthcoming U. S. speech. It was understood from a member of the assembly's 57-nation Palestine committee that the U. S. declaration of policy would be made on Thursday

Soviet Reputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky has been equally tightlipped on when the Russian reaction would come or what it will be. Last spring the Russians suggested a joint state, called for in a minority report of the Palestine inquiry commission, as a first choice, and partition as an alternative.

For nearly a week Vishinsky has been in virtual seclusion at the Long Island estate reserved for foreign minister Molotov — who still might come to the assembly from Moscow. Vishinsky was expected to appear here late today

GREETS BROOKLYNITES

Shortly after noon, word was brought to the Archbishop that the Brooklyn delegation had arrived. Leaving the stand, he returned to the starting point of the parade, and again amid the cheers of the throng, led the Brooklyn delegation over the entire route of the parade.

The Archbishop had his lunch brought to him at the reviewing stand in order that he might not miss any of the paraders.

In the late afternoon, the Archbishop again left the reviewing stand to return to Hereford st., the starting point, where he led the delegation from St. Jerome's Church, Weymouth. Children from both sides of the street ran out to kiss his ring, which slowed down the parade to almost a standstill. The Archbishop then dropped out of the line of march at the reviewing stand where he remained until a group from St. Mary's Church, Brookline, passed by.

RETURNS TO PARADE

Once again he jumped into the parade, flanked by Acting Mayor John B. Hynes, City Messenger William O'Donnell and Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., the spiritual director of the National Holy Name Society. When within a few blocks of the end of parade, he dropped out to permit two paralyzed veterans, seated in wheel chairs at Berkeley st. and Columbus ave. to kiss his ring.

The crowd gathered around him at this point until finally mounted police officers had to surround him and permit him to walk the final two blocks of the parade with the Plymouth delegation, the last contingent in the long parade. In the final stages of the parade, a light air was added as hundreds of marchers waved their hats at the Archbishop and he, in turn, shouted back joyously at them. The parade officially ended at 6:50 p. m.

Deeply moved by the great outpouring of the Holy Name members, the Archbishop, at the conclusion of the parade, said to newsmen:

"This was a magnificient tribute fro mthe average man to the ideals of religion and his indebtedness to Almighty God. It is surprising how few of these men we know by name. They are the backbone of the country. You never see their names printed in newspapers or hear their names from the platform, but these are the men who are the rock-bottom of America. And with huch men, and with countless similar men from other faiths, America is safe."

UNPRECEDENTED CROWD

Never in its history has Boston seen a crowd so large as the one which packed every foot of the two-mile route of the parade. By 10 a. m. Beacon, Charles, Boylston, Washington, and Stuart sts., over which the parade moved, were filled three and four deep.

By noon, the crowd had passed the two million mark and by 3 p. m. chief marshal of the procession, Police Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan estimated the crowd as 3,500,000, topping by a half million the greatest previous crowd in 1940 on the day of the American Legion parade.

Hour by hour hundreds of Holy Name members took their places on side streets off the parade route to form with their various units. It was estimated that close to 100,000 of the marchers were from Holy Name societies in the Greater Boston area, the remaining numbers coming from scattered places all over the country.

Pacts With Reich, Austria Urged By Von Wiegand, Back Home

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Karl H. Von Wiegand, foreign correspondent for the Hearst newspapers, is back from abroad today and advocated a do-something policy on the part of the Western powers to establish a firm peace.

"It is admitted that Germany and Austria are the keys to the situation in Europe, but no one appears capable of turning the keys," Von Wiegand said upon his arrival aboard the Italian liner Saturnia.

He urged that separate peace treaties be negotiated with Germany and Austria, and said he did not expect any concrete results from the Big Four foreign ministers conference next month in London.

"If Washington is awaiting results at the London conference in regard to peace treaties for Germany and Austria, it will undoubtedly be disappointed," he declared.

He urged that America go ahead, with or without Russia.

Von Wiegand said he would remain in this country about a month and may go back to the continent via London to "look in" on the Big Four meeting. His trip home was the first in more than a year and a half.

He said that of all the peoples abroad, the Italians appeared the most cheerful and the most eager to get back to work.

Recent demonstrations in Italy, he asserted, were more in the nature of demands for work rather than Communistic gatherings, but the latter turned the demonstrations to their own purposes.

"The Italian people are deserving of all the aid America can extend," the correspondent said. "They, like the other peoples of Europe, face a hard winter.

"All put their hope in American aid. Their gravest fear, other than war, is that America's president will not go through with the Truman Doctrine as an aid in stemming the tide of Communism in Europe."

Inflation Blamed On Chiang Kin

NANKING, Oct. 6 (INS)—The Chinese Central Government's administrative division today sharply attacked financial maneuvers of the "privileged families" surrounding Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The government's Control Yuan issued a report in Nanking, flatly accusing the Generalissimo's brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, of mismanaging government foreign exchange funds during the past two years.

Soong, a former Chinese premier, is the brother of Mde. Chiang Kai-shek. Recntly he was appointed governor of Kwangtung province.

The report recommended that the Chinese government hold him responsible for stimulating inflation and creating unstabilized prices.

AN UNFAIR, UNTRUE ACCUSATION

- The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has accused the Management of the New Haven Railroad of refusing to abide by the decisions of the National Raiload Adjustment Board.

- In an effort to enforce their demands—regardless of the facts and contrary to the best interests of all concerned—the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has threatened strike action involving about 5,000 of our road train and yard service employees.

- Because a strike of this nature will affect adversely all classes of employees on our railroad and the employees of industries we serve, as well as the shipping and traveling public, we feel the full facts should be known. There is no need for strike action; it can be and should be avoided! There are established and orderly processes for settling Railroad labor-management disputes; all the New Haven Management asks is that the accepted normal course be continued—before it is too late.

FACT No. 1

Under Section 2 of the Railway Labor Act of 1926 as Amended, General Duties are defined as follows:
"First. It shall be the duty of all carriers, their officers, agents, and employees to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes, whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise, in order to avoid any interruption to commerce or to the operation of any carrier growing out of any dispute between the carrier and the employees thereof..."

FACT No. 2

The New Haven Railroad signed an agreement with the Trainmen, effective November 1, 1941. The Railway Labor Act clearly sets forth how grievances arising out of this agreement's application shall be handled. Of the cases in dispute, mutually satisfactory settlements have been reached in all but eleven. The present controversy revolves around these.

FACT No. 3

The Railway Labor Act provides for the proper "machinery" to interpret and settle disputable labor-management issues. Usually, issues that cannot be negotiated satisfactorily are referred to the National Railroad Adjustment Board. Of the eleven cases still open for negotiation in the present instance, seven are properly referrable to this Board. The New Haven Management had previously offered to submit these issues to the Board; the Brotherhood has not agreed to join in such action, notwithstanding that they have done so on previous similar occasions. The New Haven Management will abide by the Board's decision—as it has at all times and in all cases; the Brotherhood refuses to submit to this orderly procedure.

FACT No. 4

Of the 4 remaining cases, one involves Yardmasters who are covered by their own agreement with the Railroad and therefore should be handled under the Yardmasters Agreement. This the Trainmen refuse to do. Two other cases involve issues on which new claims have been made.

The final case at point is one that was definitely settled and so acknowledged, in writing, by the Brotherhood; they now insist on reopening this case, which quite properly the Railroad refuses. Certainly the Railroad could not reverse its position once it had decided a case in favor of the employees. The same obligation should hold true for the Brotherhood.

The New Haven Management is proud of its employee relations; it has been outstanding in that respect and is so recognized throughout the field of railroading. Its labor relations record will show there have been fewer cases before the Adjustment Board from the New Haven than from any other major railroad with a comparable number of employees. The attitude of the New Haven Management toward labor always has been—and will continue to be—one of friendliness and cooperation.

It is in the sincere hope that such relations will in no way be disturbed that the Railroad presents the facts underlying the present situation. Again we repeat; there is no need for a strike that can easily be avoided if orderly methods established by law for handling such matters are followed.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, OCT. 6, 1947

LESSON FOR AMERICANS

Mr. Sid Hardin, the well-known Southwestern attorney, called the failure of British Socialism a stern lesson for Americans a few days ago when he spoke over radio stations KRVG, Weslaco, Tex., and KRLD, Dallas. Mr. Hardin said:

WE DISCOVER the first fruits of Socialism in the present economic crisis in England. The national government, led by Winston Churchill, led the English people to victory in the war; and then the British people decided that Socialism should have the responsibility of winning the peace.

The national government and Mr. Churchill bowed out of the picture, under the mandate of the British electorate, and the Socialist party, under Mr. Attlee, undertook the task of rebuilding British economy.

One of the first acts of the British Socialist government was to destroy the freedom of private enterprise, by taking over the coal industry, aviation and communications; and assuming the operation of all agriculture and banking.

Today, we see the first fruits of Socialism in action—A BANKRUPT BRITISH GOVERNMENT AND A CARPING AND DISSATISFIED PEOPLE—READY TO BLAME EVERYBODY BUT THEMSELVES.

THE ENGLISH FAIL to realize that no man has ever been able to devise a plan that will enable people to live without work. Under the Bible mandate: We "earn our bread by the sweat of our brow"; and no "cradle to the grave" security is ever SECURE unless founded upon that scriptural economic law.

Many British people would like to escape from the Socialist system. According to a recent address of Winston Churchill, over half a million people in England have applied for immigration permits to Canada, United States and Australia; and at the same time the British government is scouring Europe for 30,000 displaced persons to add to the labor supply of the British island.

On August 16, Winston Churchill delivered one of his fighting speeches to the British people. In that speech he made this significant statement:

"I warn you solemnly that if you submit yourselves to the Totalitarian compulsion and regimentation of our national life and labor—there lies before you an almost measureless prospect of misery and tribulation of which a LOWER STANDARD OF LIVING WILL BE THE FIRST RESULT; HUNGER, THE SECOND; AND THE DISPERSAL OR DEATH OF A LARGE PROPORTION OF OUR POPULATION, THE THIRD. You have not always listened to my warnings. Pay good attention to them now."

The United States made the British Socialist government a large loan last year. That loan came out of the pockets of the taxpayers in this country, and it will never be repaid. Now the experts tell us that the Socialist government of England has squandered the loan on Socialist experiments. Another loan is demanded, more help is being asked, and whatever we loan the British Socialist government will probably be squandered again; and will never be repaid.

TWO YEARS AFTER the war we find ourselves paying income taxes at the old wartime rate.

Why should the worker in the United States be taxed to underwrite the living expenses of English workers, who work only a few days each week and spend the rest of the week at soccer games, horse races and in the "pubs"?

Why should American industry be taxed to underwrite British industry?

Why should the American farmer be taxed to underwrite a Socialist farm program in England?

The disastrous failure of the British Socialist government should be a lesson to every citizen of the United States, and make us more determined than ever before—to keep Socialism, Communism, and other brands of foreign economy out of America.

Jealously you ask
If I ever think of him.
Oh, my darling,
Only as one thinks of the storm
So very thankful it is over.

One must have the rain.
Afterwards comes the rainbow
At its end the gold
And, oh, my darling!
There you are.

ABOVE TITLED "To My Second Husband" is one of those comes-from-the-heart poems written by a subscriber, whose second husband often indicates jealousy of her first husband. Incidentally, it is the first poem I have ever seen written in honor of a second husband.

IT WAS RECENTLY stated here that American women have the world's most symmetrical limbs. Some subscribers wanted to argue this point. Therefore, I note with interest that Eve Orme, British literary lady, recently wrote: "It isn't only the American women's stockings I'm envious of. It's their legs Where, where do they get those legs?"

PASSING BY: Romeo Giannini, bell captain at the Hotel Plaza. Romeo has been hopping bells at that famous hostelry since the day it opened which was 40 years ago . . . Primo Carnera. Once the heavyweight boxing champion of the world. Now earning $1000 a week as a wrestler on the howl and scowl circuit. He recently dined at the Manhattan restaurant featuring an "all the steak you can eat" dinner for $5. Primo consumed eight steaks . . . Frank McKinney, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club, seems in a genial mood. He deserves a lot of credit. As has been said:

Primo Canera

It's all very well to be happy
When life flows like a dream.
But the man worth-while is the man who can smile
When boss of a tail-end team.

SLEEPING: Experts on the subject are agreed that when sleeping everybody changes position at least 35 times a night. Now that fellow in Milwaukee can stay up some night this week and watch his wife sleeping to check how many times she changes position. I don't know how many times a dog changes his position while sleeping, but very often our pup falls out of bed in the middle of the night. If you turn the light on he is embarrassed; hangs his head and looks sheepish as if to say "what a clumsy fool I am."

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Note a puzzle contest offering for first prize "a crisp new $1000 bill." I'm going to try for that prize. So far I have never had possession of a $1000 bill . . . References are often made to the "Hindu rope trick." There probably isn't a man alive who has seen this trick done. Or one who can do it. A Londoner has had for many years a standing offer of $40,000 for any man who can do the Hindu rope trick and show how it is done. This offer has been continually advertised throughout India.

WARNING: Some of the highway safety people are discussing the matter of putting up signs that will have more of an impression on the wild drivers than the routine type, which just say "danger-curve ahead." One warning sign has stuck in my memory for years. It was on a highway near Middletown, Ct. Painted on the stones of a railroad underpass that was near a sharp turn, it read: "Prepare to meet thy God."

FIRST CLASS KISS: It was Max Factor, the Hollywoodian, who claimed the pressure of a first class kiss is 10 pounds, that a kiss in the ecstasy class, 25 pounds. However, Mr. Factor has not advised how the average person can measure kisses. Somebody should manufacture a popular priced kiss measurer. It should sell well in Boston. The girls there are always complaining the local boys are weak kissers. If these fellows had their kisses measured before their eyes they might try to do better.

SAYS HE: "I'm not a cynical fellow," writes a Philadelphia bachelor. "But the rapidity with which some women cast away gloom after the death of a husband has altered my opinion of the female sex. That man who said: 'Sorrow for a husband is like a pain in the elbow, sharp and short,' seems to have had something."

HORSES AND WOMEN: "Women excel men in avoiding an argument with a smile" is what I note on a list of things women are alleged to do better than men. Our Horses and Women experts are studying that claim. They say there is a catch in it. Their claim is that a smile will often put an argumentative husband in good humor. On the other hand, if the wife starts the argument and her husband tries to avoid it with a smile the little lady snaps:

"What are you grinning at? So you think it's funny?" or words to that effect.

"No cause for alarm, officer—my husband comes from a long-lived family!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—John Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, joined Governor Warren and Senator Downey of California a few days ago in their discovery of a new underworld in the amusement industry.

Westbrook Pegler

On this special phase of the new problem of criminality in the entertainment trades, Mr. Hoover delivered some remarks to a class of 500 of his G-men at the Department of Justice in Washington.

"Glaring headlines announced the assassination of Bugsy Siegel, but circumstances surrounding his career in crime tell the story better than words," said he. "Here was an individual whose life was a constant challenge to common decency.

"Yet he and his criminal scum were lionized and their favors sought after in so-called respectable circles."

MR. H. WAS REFERRING here to an account of a cocktail party by the Eddie Cantors soon after Siegel was shot dead in the presence of Allen Smiley, which is an alias for Aaron Smehoff and Abraham Smickoff, originally of Beliza, Russia.

Cantor had blown some kisses after the dead gorilla and Jimmy Durante, an old-time speakeasy player himself, saluted Siegel's memory kindly.

Then, too, Hoover remembered that Siegel had been a cordial friend of an American woman of wealth who married an Italian and became, for some years, a sort of rhinestone Mrs. Astor of the Hollywood glammer set, under the title of the Countess Dorothy di Frasso.

She mourned Siegel's passing by phone from Italy and the morgue envelopes showed that the Countess Dorothy until a few years ago was the head babe of the haute monde and the bon ton of the Hollywood have-another-hod-of-caviar set.

"THE GLAMOUR that surrounded his life in all its vile implications was shockingly disgusting," said John Edgar, still going on about Bugsy, "but Siegel was a symbol. He fronted for more sinister and disreputable characters, the untouchables who hire mercenaries to do their work."

In Arizona last winter, an old-time Leavenworth convict with a brutal record turned up socially with some of the old Roosevelt New Deal White House set.

This is one of the manifestations that Hoover means when he twangs the note about the lionizing of criminal scum by "so-called respectable social circles."

NOW LET US consider a little night-side paper published in Hollywood called "Hollywood Nite Life. Movies. Radio. Nite Clubs. Sports. Music."

The masthead names Jimmy Tarantino as the "editor and publisher." Tarantino is a fellow who used to hang around Jacobs' Beach, a stretch near Madison Square Garden, where the fighters, managers and racketeers gather. He has been a friend of Frank Sinatra.

George Evans, Sinatra's press agent and manager, has been jumpy lately. They overdid their publicity. The pied piper theme about the hungry-looking little ragamuffin with the hollow cheeks and the innocent stare, leading millions of American young girls—just children—into insensate street commotions and "Liberal" or "anti-Fascist" political riots was badly overdone.

People got inquisitive and inquired what sort of fellow this really was who was going to influence their young ones. They found out.

EVANS SAYS SINATRA brushed Tarantino long ago.

But, on Feb. 4, 1946, Sinatra's name was signed first to a telegram to Fred Howser, the prosecuting attorney of Los Angeles County, demanding big police protection for Tarantino and his wife and child who had been "threatened and harassed by political gangsters."

There was a report that Mrs. Tarantino and the baby child had been kidnaped.

This investigation did not confirm this but it did lead to interesting information about Tarantino.

MR. HOWSER IS NOW the attorney general of the State in charge of several serious investigations of underworld activity in connection with the amusement business, ordered by Governor Warren.

Evans specifically said Sinatra did not finance Tarantino's paper.

This is two columns of ecstatic publicity about Las Vegas and personal admiration of "Mr. Benjamin Siegel, a handsomely groomed, tall, handsome, tanned and smiling gent," whom J. Edgar Hoover called "a challenge to human decency."

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (INS)—When you talk baseball these days (and who isn't?) you're talking Jackie Robinson. This morning I can tell you that the greatest Negro baseball player of all time comes to Hollywood after the World Series, to make a picture for PRC. It's called "Courage" and the deal was made with the sanction of Branch Rickey, owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, for whom Jackie does his ball playing.

This ends a flurry of rumors about his movie plans. Last week it was hot for Jackie to appear in "The Life of Babe Ruth" for Roy Del Ruth. But that script isn't ready and the time element is an important factor in Robinson's Hollywood plans. He has to be back with "Dem Bums" no later than January for spring practice.

There was also talk that he would star in a story of his life, based on a recent magazine story. But "Courage" is definite. Jack Goldberg and Ben Stoloff of PRC went East to sign him.

Ginger Rogers' father-in-law, Ben Katz, just died. Ginger and her husband, Jack Briggs, were at his bedside.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 10 a. m. at Hollywood cemetery. He was 52 years old.

ONCE AGAIN "The Robe" is being discussed with a thought of making the picture in Rome. That's where all the scenes are laid, and it would be possible to make it at much less cost there.

Gregory Peck was originally mentioned for the lead, but I believe this is not definite. The film rights of the widely publicized book by Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas belong to Frank Ross, who will make it for RKO.

Mervyn Le Roy, who spent two years of his life helping to get the script ready, will not direct it. He's committed on the MGM lot to do some big things.

With juvenile delinquency what it is today, and the salacious books on the market, I think this will be a wonderful picture. What the world needs today is more religion.

IN THE END Nora Eddington gets Errol Flynn in "Don Juan," as well as in real life. She told me she doesn't come into the picture until almost the finale.

Nora Flynn

"But," she said laughing, "I'm the one that lands Mr. Don Juan."

I couldn't take my eyes off Nora. She's become a real, a charming, beautiful woman. Gone is that young unsureness, that fear her marriage wouldn't work out. I must say Errol has changed and much for the better. He was wearing his Navy coat from his boat and his hair has grown long.

They were having dinner with Hazel Brooks, Cedric Gibbons and Mrs. Gary Cooper.

PERSONAL to Cornel Wilde: Come, come, come, what's this about your doctor thinking you aren't well enough to do "Walls of Jericho?" You're a big boy. You know better than that. You were well enough to go with Pat on a second honeymoon to Honolulu, weren't you?

Let's put it straight—you're the one who thinks you shouldn't do these pictures, aren't you, Cornel? You also turned down "Lady in Ermine."

Believe me, this is a big mistake, as big a mistake as your promise to be back here Sept. 15 and then not showing up by the 22nd after your studio had granted you that much of a vacation extension.

I can say to you, as I can say to all temperamental actors, these are too precarious times for kicking up your heels. As heels fly, heads are falling.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Cathy Downs telephoned that she and John Champion have called off their engagement. At first I accused her of announcing her engagement as a publicity stunt because Champion was assistant producer on her picture.

Cathy hotly denied this, saying: "I'm 21 and that's young. When I get married I want it to last. I don't want to be divorced. I like John tremendously, but he and I both agreed to wait and if we really care, to marry later."

I call that being very sensible. They met while they were working at Monogram.

The SOS from mid-Atlantic was undoubtedly from the plane carrying Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob home. A telegram from Eleanor contains the harrowing news that she and Bert almost met death in mid-ocean.

Two engines went dead, and passengers were told to don their life preservers and get ready to parachute. The plane had already dropped about 4000 feet, when by some miracle the engines started. They were far from right, however, and limped into Newfoundland, where the plane was put in for repairs. They waited there for another ship.

As of today, Joan Crawford is not marrying Greg Bautzer. I talked with her and Connie and Jerry Wald at length at dinner.

Says Joan, and I quote:

"I haven't seen Mr. Bautzer since April 2. My children brought me home, and no man."

When Joan got home her house was filled with flowers from many admirers, and among them, of course, were posies from the charmer, Mr. Bautzer. But Joan says her heart is in New York and always has been—Joanie, can we believe you?

What a treat for the kids of Hollywood! Walt Disney is entertaining 600 of them at the premiere of "Fun and Fancy Free." A week from Saturday the children of stars, writers, prop men, in fact everyone who has a child in the entire business, will be asked to send them to the Disney studio by 1:30.

The picture will open with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy entertaining them. They will go to the studio commissary for ice cream and cake, and all the things that children love.

I wish I could be there because I think this is the nicest preview I have heard of in a long time.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random.

Merle Oberon showed me the wire on her teeth and said her jaw had actually been fractured. She was with Lucien Ballard, who told me the news of her fractured jaw, which was later denied in other columns.

Couldn't believe my eyes—Gene Tierney and the self-styled genius Orson Welles making eyes at each other—and what eyes! They were in a party Otto Preminger gave. He escorted Greer Garson, who wore a huge hat with a veil. Greer is keeping her word about having fun, it seems, for I saw her first at L'Aiglon and later at the Mocambo.

Gene Tierney

Yes, I took the evening off and visited all the night spots. June Havoc, who is supposed to be engaged to Bill Spier, was out with Billy Wilder. That's a new twosome.

Betty Avery Drown and Ken Schmidt, a twosome at the Mocambo, are announcing their marriage plans any edition.

Irene Dunn has been sick with a bad sore throat and out of "I Remember Mama" cast for a week. You know when Irene stays off a picture she's really pretty sick.

"Paramonumental" won the $1000 offered by Paramount at a party given for Cecil B. DeMille, in New York, for the most sensational promotional word.

Swell news that Sol Lesser returns to his office tomorrow. Illness has kept him away since June. His recovery is good news to all the others who have been stricken with heart ailment.

There are more rumbles that the Georgette Windsor and Cushing marriage is very shaky.

Arline Judge Topping was rushed to the hospital for an appendectomy. While she was there her bridegroom, Bob Topping, decided to have a tonsilectomy. The Dan Topping baby is expected in January, and because they are expecting, it was rumored that Arline was to have another baby. But I hear it isn't so.

Broadway's Voice

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Lew Parker flies to Hollywood tomorrow to be screen tested for the role he created in the Broadway musical, "Are You With It" . . . Intimates say Barbara Hutton will sail for the U. S. within a fortnight.

The producer of a show opening on Broadway next week (and likely to be a hit) is reported to have left only three per cent of it for himself . . . Claude Thornhill, one of the better "sweet" bandleaders, will shock the music world by announcing that he will include Be-bop rhythms in his repertoire . . . The socially registered playboys are reviving the fad of spending time and money in the midtown dime-a-dance palaces. One of the more amusing results is in evidence already—a rather blowsy lass employed at one local dance emporium has taken to sporting a lorgnette and a Park Avenue broad "a" . . . A very high-ranking Washington personage sends orchids daily to dancer Carolyn Ayres. She's performing in the Capitol currently.

Barbara Hutton

"MOUSIE" GREEN, the former Ziegfeld girl, tells intimates she'll remarry her first husband . . . Red Skelton will be the first Hollywood star to be immortalized on the Egyptian Theater's new Wall of Fame, which eventually will contain more than 100 bronze plaques honoring the film industry's outstanding personages. He was chosen because of his stage and screen background and because he was considered a "comedian's comedian" . . . Elizabeth Arden's niece, Pat, is set to marry the manager of the famous cosmetician's Australian outlet. They'll sail for Australia after the ceremony . . . Billy Livingston is squiring Diana Barrymore around town—but it's not a romance, just an old friendship . . . El Borracho, the town's most love-conscious restaurant, takes cognizance of Cupid's vicissitudes by introducing a "Torch Room" (dim lights and music denoting frustration) tomorrow night.

JACK CARTER, the comic in "Call Me Mister," is carrying on despite a leg ailment which now and then requires backstage medical treatment. It's a hangover from a grenade incident during the war . . . There's no end to those gag names for cover girls. Dorothy Vedda, hatcheck girl at Tony's Trouville, is switching to a modeling career—and she'll be known henceforth as Stormy Vedda! . . . Peggy Joyce's new hobby is play reading. She tells intimates she'd like to bankroll a Broadway production . . . Dancers Nelle Fisher and Bill Skipper, performing in the ballets in "Up in Central Park," at Universal, photograph so well together they may be built up as a romantic cinema team . . . Freddie Vosberg, ex-husband of singer Wini Shaw, is sniffing orange blossoms with one of Mexico's leading models.

A WEST 44TH STREET hotel has become the town's newest wolf hangout. All the English chorines (and pretty, too) who are in New York for the show "Under the Counter" are living there—and the fellows adore them because they're inexpensive dates. They eat chocolate bars for lunch . . . Everett Crosby's backstage visit at "Brigadoon" may result in Lee Sullivan's doing another film for Everett's brother Bing . . . Our Canadian neighbors are squawking, but loud, on the 50 per cent price of admission increase to view our better films . . . The biggest New Year's Eve-type celebrations in town are those being staged at El Chico, where visiting Latins reserve a number of tables to honor their country's independence day. Such whooping up!

THE ONE GIRL who is always interestingly "along" when Milton Berle sallies forth to night clubs with half a dozen or so male pals these evenings is Junior Standish, the nitery chorine . . . Hotels have increased house detective staffs for the duration of the World Series, to avoid burglaries among the well-heeled sporting visitors . . . Now that the play "I Gotta Get Out" has come and gone, Joseph Fields will return to toiling on the comedy he has half finished. It's titled "One World to a Customer" . . . . Sheila Bond, who stopped the show in "Street Scene" is swooning over George Greif, whose dad owns the Studio Restaurant . . . Know how Ray Bolger keeps his ankles flexible for that Carnival footwork? He skips rope every day.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—My social secretary, Mrs. Tabitha Talcott Pratt, waddled in today followed by a porter carrying two bags and declared it was high time the United Nations put a stop to such inflammatory demonstrations.

"What are they exercising Vishinsky for?" asked my senior naval aide, Machinist's Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly—"To win the third at Laurel?"

Things began to look hot as usual, so Mr. Grover Whitney McKeister, the urbane legislative consultant, stepped in to pour trouble on the oiled waters.

"I am sure we can all appreciate your concern, dear lady," he soothed. "I take it you have been attending a seminar of the United Nations?"

"You can take it, if it gives you any pleasure," snapped Mrs. Pratt, "and you can keep it. But I was not attending the United Nations. I was at an unspeakable orgy in New York called the World Series."

"But that is a baseball contest," objected Miss Reid, who is very bright and right on her toes when it comes to world events.

"I am well aware of that," retorted Mrs. Pratt. "I just say it should be stopped—that's all!"

"What's wrong with baseball?" demanded my naval aide. "Don't you like the Bums?"

"I will thank you not to use that kind of language in my presence," froze Mrs. Pratt.

"I didn't say nothing," protested Machinists Mate Kelly. "I just ast if you didn't like the Bums."

"He is merely referring to the Brooklyn baseball team," Miss Reid explained.

"Because," declared Tabby "it obviously represents an appeal to prejudice. With my own ears I heard the most partisan remarks. It is not conducive to amity."

"What in hell is she saying?" pleaded Mr. Kelly.

"She is trying to say that people take sides when they attend a baseball game; that they are inclined to favor one team over another," said Mr. McKeister.

"Well, what does the old hay-bag—begging your pardon, Mrs. Pratt—think they would do? What is the game being played for?"

"That is just it," replied Tabby, firmly. "It tends to turn man against man; to promote discord and disharmony. Many of the remarks I overheard were definitely inflammatory."

"Such as what?"

"Such as calling for the liquidation of the officials. Any number of rabble-rousers in the crowd kept urging the murder of the umpire. In times like these when we should be striving to promote peace by any means it is definitely alarming. I wonder what the Russians think of it?"

MACHINISTS MATE KELLY said he didn't care what the Russians thought of it and asked Mrs. Pratt if she had any further objections.

"Yes," said my social secretary, "I am convinced it is also dishonest. I was a guest, throughout the affair, of two of the West Coast's most distinguished cotillion leaders, Mr. Dave Siegel and Mr. Scotty Rubin, and they kept asking friends all around them what was the price. Obviously they meant that the game had been bought."

"I don't think so," said Mr. McKeister. "I think they were just asking their friends how much they had paid for their seats."

A VERY LARGE and elaborate surprise party was thrown the other day for Mr. Roy St. Lewis, the eminent attorney. His missus, Peggy, practically knocked herself out trying to keep it a secret; in fact she developed a furtive look which may not wear off for weeks.

Nevertheless there was a leak. Although he strove manfully to appear astounded, Mr. St. Lewis had an inkling beforehand.

We have tried our best to figure out how he knew—and the only explanation we can think of is that the recently ex-countessed Austin Cassini wrote a piece in the paper about five days in advance, describing what a delightful surprise was in store for Mr. St. Lewis.

Crew Stricken As Tug Loses Four Barges

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 6 (INS) One crewman was dead today, two others reported dead and 25 violently ill from fish poisoning aboard the ocean-going tug Grimm off Palmyra.

Meanwhile an intensive search still was under way for its tow of four barges, missing 12 days.

The sea mystery developed as the Hawaiian Sea Frontier Rescue unit intensified its search over a 300-mile radius in the vicinity of the island of Palmyra for the four converted minesweepers.

The missing barges had a crew of three, presumably all aboard one of the vessels, and they had rations for only 10 days when set adrift.

The tug Grimm set its tow adrift to put into Palmyra for fuel but was unable to find the four vessels when it returned to the scene. The Grimm sought the converted minesweepers vainly for five days, then appealed to the Navy by radio for aid. Then the wave of food poisoning developed on the Grimm.

Judge Dewhirst, Leader Of House of David, Dies

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 6 (INS)—Judge H. T. Dewhirst, 66, leader of the House of David religious colony, died at Mercy Hospital.

The former justice of the California Supreme Court headed the House of David legal staff which prevented federal dissolution of the colony, noted for its long-haired and bearded baseball team, after the death of "King" Benjamin Purnell in 1927.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THERE IS NO WAY of getting at the full facts of the damage done to this country by Communists and other subversive agents of foreign governments except through public witnessing by those who have, for one reason or another, turned on their former masters and associates.

The motives for change are different. Some were disappointed in their ambitions to become proletarian leaders; others discovered that whereas they believed that they were serving a fine ideal, they were really being used to betray their own country. Such men as Jay Lovestone and Ben Gitlow have devoted themselves, at risk and sacrifice, to protect this country as they once sought to destroy its government. I have among my friends and acquaintances literally dozens of men and women who, during the Hitler-Stalin alliance, were so ashamed of Soviet cynicism that from ardent Communists they became ardent anti-Communists. Such a man as Dr. J. B. Matthews, while never a Communist, was associated with that party as a fellow traveler; yet, I venture to say that no man has fought that party more ably and more consistently once he discovered the essential wickedness of the movement.

The risk these ex-Communists take is very real. Already there is a growing list of Americans who have lost their lives in this fight. Juliet Stuart Poyntz disappeared in New York in broad daylight as she was about to make a dramatic switch. Carlo Tresca was shot down on its streets. Walter Krivetsky was mysteriously killed in Washington. George W. Albert was murdered in San Francisco. And there have been others.

IN FIGHTING Communists, our government is absolutely dependent upon the ex-Communists; yet, it does nothing to protect them from the brutality of Communist lawyers who use tactics in hearings that ought not be permitted in any court of law or hearing before government officials. Rather than submit to shameless browbeating and unbridled vituperation, these witnesses will take to cover and then the government will have no corroborative evidence. Of course, that is what the Communist lawyers seek to accomplish. They seek publicity to intimidate the witnesses.

SOME OF THE ex-Communists have told me that while government witnesses are treated with visible discourtesy, the Communists under indictment and investigation are shown ever consideration. Current witness fees are set at such a low figure ($4.50 per diem) that the witness pays out of his own pocket for lost wages and living expenses during the proceedings. In some cases his absence from his job may mean its loss. Where a witness is employed in an industry with a Communist-controlled union, this is bound to happen.

If the government is seriously trying to tackle the Communist menace, then the first step is to employ qualified experts in such cases. Amateurs can bring only discredit upon the government. Every effort should be made to insure the cooperation and protection of friendly witnesses. If the administration is sincere in its desire to expose the anti-American machinations of the Communists, the co-operation of witnesses should receive the highest public commendation from the presiding officer at such proceedings. As it is, it appears that the government treats its own witnesses with contempt.

This is something that requires immediate consideration, for otherwise no former Communist will assist the government to free itself from the fifth column at work in this country. They do it now under these unfavorable conditions out of noble patriotism.

Famed Jekyll Isle Resort Purchased by Georgia

80,000 CHRONIC SINUS VICTIMS in BOSTON

Most Sinus sufferers think it is Catarrh and that nothing can be done for it.

All the word CATARRH denotes is an inflammation of the mucous membrane. They do not know that sinus is an infection caused by germs. Another fallacy of its victims is that unless headaches are present it can't be sinus trouble.

Our process has cured over 2,000 sinus cases. It kills the germs without any discomfort, does it in a short time, and is inexpensive. All treatments are given under a doctor's supervision.

Local Tax Rates Hit Record Peak

Tax rate increases this year for the 351 cities and towns of the Commonwealth jumped $3.14 to set a new average record of $39.04, bringing the average increase for the past two years to more than $6, the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Ass'ns reported today.

Chelsea and Cambridge announced slightly lower tax rates than last year. Woburn and Worcester remained unchanged, and the remaining 35 cities had increases ranging from 20 cents to $7. Of the towns, 33 reduced their rates, while 32 announced no change. The remaining 247 towns reported increases.

Leverett has the highest tax rate of any community, $62, while Gosnold is lowest with $15. The greatest increase was in Hubbardston, where the 1947 jump was $22.40.

METHODISTS TO MEET

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Northeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church will hold its quadrennial session and choose successors to two retiring bishops, including Bishop Lewis O. Hartman of Boston, at Trinity Church, Albany, N. Y., next June 16, Rev. Dr. Frederick B. Newell of New York announced.

Catholic Parents Drop Fight To Bar Negroes in Schools

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Catholic Parents Ass'n of St. Louis County voted to disband its organization and abandon its opposition to Abp. Joseph E. Ritter's recently instituted policy of permitting Negro children to attend parochial schools together with white children.

The almost unanimous vote to disband came after Chairman John P. Barrett read a letter from the apostolic delegate to the U. S., Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, of Washington, to whom the association appealed last month to intervene in the conflict precipitated by Archbishop Ritter's policy.

In his letter to Barrett, Archbishop Cicognani stated he could not act in the matter.

"I am confident that everyone will readily comply with what has been so clearly proposed by the ecclesiastical authority of the (St. Louis) archdiocese," the letter read.

In calling for the motion to disband, Barrett declared:

"I am positive if you carry on, you will have to throw up the Catholic religion.

"There is only one alternative to disbanding—to attack the archbishop and the Catholic faith. I cannot and will not act as chairman, for I don't intend to jeopardize my religion or that of anyone else."

B'nai B'rith Head In Palestine Plea

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Frank Goldman of Lowell, Mass., international president of B'nai B'rith, appealed to President Truman to issue a statement supporting the principles of recommendations contained in the majority report of the United Nations special committee on Palestine. The report is now before the UN.

Addressing 2000 delegates to the third annual conference of the Metropolitan Council of B'nai B'rith, Goldman said:

"By telegram a week ago I pleaded for the President's personal intervention to accomplish immediate large scale immigration into Palestine."

He said that although he had made his appeal in the name of B'nai B'rith, no answer had yet been received.

Documents Bare Red Baltic Horror

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—Documentary evidence of deportation and liquidation tactics used by the Soviet Union in illegally absorbing Lithuania and the other Baltic states into the USSR in 1940 "with the blessing of Hitler" were presented today by Constantine R. Jurgela.

Jurgela, an official of the Lithuanian American Council, also named UN Soviet Delegate Vishinsky, Russian deputy foreign minister, as having supervised the brutal liquidation of Latvia in June, 1940, during the Stalin-Hitler pact.

A documented dossier, compiled from secret Soviet reports, recording "the full horror" of the Soviet seizure of Lithuania, will be published this week in the Lithuanian Bulletin, organ of the Lithuanian American Council.

Soldier Sought as Woman's Attacker

Army officials at Fort Banks today were probing the beating of a Revere woman near the entrance to the fort by an assailant described as wearing an Army uniform, and will hold a muster of personnel to allow the victim and an unidentified witness to inspect the soldiers in an effort to identify the attacker.

At a brightly-lighted bus stop Mrs. Agnes Maggioli, 43, of Bickford ave., Revere, was seized by a man who attempted to gag her as she screamed and fought to escape.

Her cries attracted the attention of soldiers at the Ft. Banks guardhouse, and the assailant fled as they ran to her aid. Mrs. Maggioli was taken to Winthrop Community Hospital.

Assignment: America

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (INS)—Since a man's loyalty is a thing too intangible to measure by bushels, yards or cubic feet, a great many people high in American government have had grave doubts about the so-called "loyalty check" of federal employes from its very beginning.

It sounded too much like some of the purges, inquisitions and kangaroo courts which have marked the black pages in European history.

Subsequent developments in the loyalty check story have hardly served to lessen those doubts.

The State Dept. announced late last week it had completely exonerated three of the 10 employes who were fired from that agency last June because they were suspected of disloyalty. However, they can't have their old jobs back—although they can get other jobs "without prejudice."

Of course, there's still the question of whether anyone will hire them, in view of the cloud which has hung over their reputations the past four months.

CLOUD OF SUSPICION

So let's have a look at what caused that cloud.

At the time they were discharged, officials—without revealing their names—said the 10 individuals were being fired because they were considered "bad security risks." Later, State Sec. Marshall told a news conference the men were suspected of having been in contact with agents of a foreign government. It didn't take a crystal-gazer to guess which government he meant.

But now it seems that in at least three instances, the State Dept.'s special committee and its Security Board members were wrong.

One man was dismissed because he was accused of associating with two alleged Communists and having "voted Communist" one time many years ago.

Further investigation disclosed he had "associated" with the first alleged Communist only long enough to find out about the post-war welfare of his sister, who came from the same part of Europe as the alleged Communist. As for the second alleged Communist, there were many State Dept. red faces when it was discovered he was a widely-known and almost rabid anti-Communist!

The voting incident grew out of a joke at the polls long ago when a friend asked the man how he was going to vote. "Communist," he said with a grin.

The other day I was talking to a naturalized American who came from a central European country and who now is engaged in doing semi-propaganda work in this country.

The State Dept. calls on him whenever they're checking the record of an individual who came from the same country. They want to know about that person's political connections back there.

"So, I vote thumbs-up or thumbs-down," he said. "Mostly thumbs-down, I must say. So often, in fact, that they're calling me a Fascist now. But that's all right," he shrugged, "I hated them over there and I hate them here."

"Communists, you mean?" I asked.

"Maybe," he said, shrugging again. "Anyway, 25 bucks a head is good pay."

With that we separated, and I wondered if he really was putting the finger on Communists, or just old political enemies . . . and I wondered who had checked his Americanism record . . . and I shuddered inwardly at the thought of being judged by such as he.

Most of all, I wondered how many of our forefathers, who came here long ago to escape political persecution and old European feuds, now were spinning in their graves!

Boy Friend's Suicide Threat Sure Sign of Immaturity

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IN MY MAIL lately there have been a number of letters from girls who are worried because their boy friends threaten to commit suicide unless the girls marry them.

A typical letter says:

"I am a girl of 19 who has been engaged for nine months to a boy of the same age. My boy friend has asked me to marry him right away and has told me that, if I will not do this, he is going to make away with himself. I really believe he will attempt such a thing, and I could never live it down if something like that happened.

"I have asked him to wait until my birthday, which is in January but all I get for an answer is no. I would like to know what I should do in a case like this. I don't want to be married right away, but I do love him very much."

CHILDISH MALE

Now, whether it is a boy of 19 or a man of 10, 20, or 30 years older, anybody who threatens to commit suicide if he can't get what he wants is one of the best people in the world to stay away from. A man of this type, who tries to get his own way with threats, gives himself away as a childish character who is unable to handle either himself or the situations with which life confronts him. He is like a baby who holds his breath until he is black in the face in order to frighten his mother into doing something he wants her to do and which he cannot get her to in any other way.

There would be nothing but lifelong misery ahead for any girl who married a man of this kind, for her marriage would simply be a series of crises in which her husband would continue to get his own way because she would be afraid not to give it to him.

OLD AS ADAM

In every instance of this kind which has been brought to my attention, the girl is already afraid not to accede to her young man's wishes, lest he actually carry out his threat. She should, however, get two things very clearly in mind:

The first is that it would be very doubtful indeed that the chap would go so far as to make good on his threat. This sort of thing has been going on probably since men and women were created, and the percentage of disappointed lovers who brandish the threat of suicide as a weapon over the loved one's head, and actually use it, is very small. As a rule, once it has been made clear to them that they cannot have their way, they drop their bluster and turn their attention in some other direction.

The second thing for any girl to remember who finds herself with such a situation on her hands is that, if the young man did commit suicide, she should in no way consider herself to blame, and should refuse to allow herself the luxury of thinking that a man loved her so much that he couldn't live without her and chose death rather than give her up. This would definitely not be the case, because this kind of man would almost certainly commit an act of this sort sooner or later for one thing if not another.

Magic Liquid Freshener

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT'S TRUE there's no longer much difference between smart college and smart career girl fashions. In judging their status from appearance . . . you can't distinguish the gals who are pursuing higher academics from those who are pushing a pen . . . or pounding the typewriter keys.

Just as narrow shoulders, tiny waists and longer, full skirts are giving the date-bound college girl a prettier, more demurely-feminine look . . . the same fashions are beguiling her white-collar sister equally intent on keeping a rendezvous with romance.

But there's more than clothes to their common bond. There's their wonderfully alert, naturally fresh, good-to-be-alive-looking faces . . . with complexions radiant and vibrant, . . . divinely smooth, subtle and oh, so utterly grand. For if the old gals would only take a page from the beauty book of the younger gals . . . they'd make complexion care an astutely-learned lesson. They'd get basic . . . and that makes for beauty!

NATURAL BEAUTY

There's real charm in the scrubbed-fresh facial appearance. There's downright beauty in that kind of complexion cleanliness . . . for it never is a breeding place . . . a fertile stamping ground for fast-multiplying blackheads, enlarged pores and unwanted peskies.

Which leads me today to cheer a new, little-known, amber-colored liquid detergent . . . worth a million to any gal seeking a wonderful, healthy complexion. Since it came into being . . . not so many months ago . . . it has been our daily standby.

Not only does it clean the skin . . . but it actually helps it to get beautiful. There's nothing fancy about its bottle container . . . nor does its creator make any hokus-pokus claims for it. But it is a down-to-earth cleansing agent . . . born of the highly industrialized civilization in which we live . . . primed to serve any woman in her quest for a wonderful facial expanse. It has no romanticized name . . . but rather a very prosaic laboratory tag.

But when it comes to talking about magic for the skin . . . let's give credit where credit is due . . . and say this liquid facial has plenty of magic for bringing the complexion many leagues closer to unadulterated, clear-bright beauty.

For the name of this basic beauty producer, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHETHER she's sipping soda through a straw at a drugstore date . . . or theater-partying it in more formal togs . . . the smart girl looks mighty keen as the party of the first part in the boy-meets-girl routine. Her complexion is usually a tribute to healthful beauty. That's because she subscribes to complexion naturalness . . . the kind which a new kind of facial detergent induces for girl and woman alike.

Liver and Hot Potato Salad Combine for Delicious Meal

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT'S HATS OFF to liver now, for here's this combinable favorite in a completely new setting. Liver's been seen with bacon, and with onions many times before, but served on a hot, savory potato salad with its traditional bacon dressing, it's a distinctly different flavor combination.

The liver is pan-fried before topping the potatoes—and here's the secret to its tender juiciness: It's cooked slowly. Liver that is cooked quickly is often hard and flavorless, while that which is cooked gently has an appetizing tenderness and flavor.

In pan-frying liver have the meat sliced about ½ to ¾-inch thick. Place in a frying pan with a small amount of fat and cook slowly until browned on both sides. Then reduce the temperature and cook until tender and done—this will not take much longer than the browning period.

MENU

Pan-fried Liver
Hot Potato Salad
Buttered Carrots Crisp Relishes
Rye Bread Butter or Margarine
Fruit Bowl Dessert
Milk Coffee

The hot potato salad is prepared at the same time in another frying pan, so the liver and potato salad are ready to serve in one delectable combination. Perfect to serve with it are sweet buttered carrots, crisp relishes and a bowl of luscious fresh fruit for dessert.

Pan-frying, however is not the only method by which liver may be prepared. In fact, braising is the method recommended for cooking beef or pork liver. For a real delicacy, veal and lamb liver may be broiled. Again, have the slices cut ½ to ¾ inch thick. Marinate in French dressing or brush with melted butter. Broil at a moderate temperature, about 3 minutes on each side. For a true time saver with delicious results, broil slices of tender bacon and luscious tomato halves at the same time. Canned or cooked peas heated at the same time in the broiler pan will be made flavorful by the rich meat drippings.

DEEP-FAT FRYING

Deep fat frying is also suggested for certain types of liver. Have the meat cut in long thin strips, then marinate in French dressing. Dip in a mixture of egg and milk, then in sifted cracker crumbs, and fry in deep fat at 360 deg. F., until browned.

Brochettes or kabobs are a delicacy when made with liver. Alternate on a skewer cubes of liver cut about 1½ inches square, tomato sections, small onions, pieces of bacon, and mushroom caps. Marinate in French dressing (this adds flavor as well as increases tenderness), then broil.

Robed in Beauty

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

IT'S A lovely, snug feeling to be wrapped in warmth when the world outside is a vast storm of wind and ice and even the flames in the fireplace seem weakened by the cold. But it's an even lovelier feeling to know that the robe that is keeping you warm is also making you look like a beautiful lady taking her ease.

At-home coats for this winter are fashioned on gracefully long lines. They are made with plenty of fabric so that the sweep of the fabric gives drama while its folds provide warmth. Materials may be the sheer wools that fall as beautifully as silk or the heavy wools that take so well to sculpturing.

Dorine Liebert designed the at-home coat sketched today. It is made of rose dust sheer wool with a midriff and side panels of matching satin. The long sleeves are cut deep under the arms and taper gradually to tight wrists. The deep neckline points down to a row of tiny buttons at the midriff.

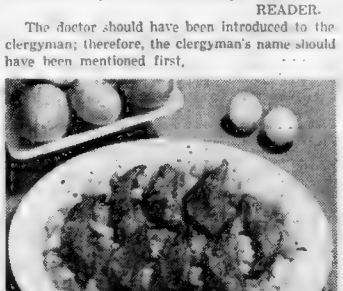
Tip on Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

The other day our doctor came to make his weekly call on my mother, and at the very same time our clergyman called. They do not know each other; so I had to make the introduction. Whose name should I have mentioned first in the introduction? (They are both middle-aged men.)

READER.

The doctor should have been introduced to the clergyman; therefore, the clergyman's name should have been mentioned first.



PAN-FRIED LIVER and hot potato salad makes appetizing dish for crisp fall days.

Early U. S.-Sponsored Election Seen Saving Korea From Reds

By RAY RICHARDS
Special to the Boston Evening American

SEOUL, Oct. 6—The call is once again: "Wake up, America!"

There is still time to save Korea from the Red tide.

The question is whether the U. S. will move positively in a segment of the world more important to American security than Greece or any other European country, or whether the State Dept.'s strange deference to Russia is to work as disastrously here as in Europe.

So many alarm bells are ringing around the world that Korea's may seem a mere tinkle because of its seeming remoteness — but the U. S. may regret some day that it did not listen for this note alone.

No air strategist minimizes the importance of the Korean salient.

It cannot be forgotten that the only blow dealt U. S. territory in the late war was by Japan and that the only threat of continental invasion came from the Far East. Russia is part of the Far East.

PROMISE MADE

An election in American-occupied South Korea is the need.

The U. S. has promised that election, and Russia's conduct in Seoul removes all excuse for delaying it.

A free election now, with U. S. support for the government that results, would be no Soviet-manipulated ballot such as befell Hungary through neglect of the democracies to get tough with Moscow in time.

South Korea would go by its own democratic desire to the right, to the side of the U. S.

Thus saved from Russia, the new South Korean government would regard Soviet-occupied North Korea merely as a lost province. But there is no time to waste.

Russia's aggression in South Korea is much more vigorous than has heretofore been reported to the American people

The first urgent fact revealed is that Russians of high position, here on a diplomatic mission, have committed a high crime against diplomatic procedure and human good manners by attempting to organize a Communist underground and foment an insurrection in the country of which they are guests.

That serious charge, not published before, is made by Dr. Syngman Rhee, Kim Koo and other rightist independence leaders against the Russian members of the joint Soviet-American commission which since spring has been in negotiation on the make-up of a proposed all-Korean government.

"Our election plan has been pronounced perfectly workable by the State Dept.," Dr. Rhee said, "but the State Dept. has gone along with Russian wishes and has set no election date.

COP AND ROBBERS

DETROIT, Oct. 6 (AP)—Even off duty, Patrolman Harold Linfoot, 49, couldn't get away from lawbreakers.

Linfoot, out of uniform, was parking his car at the rear of his girl friend's apartment when three masked men held him up. He surrendered $80, and his friend, Cecile Booker, 28, gave up $2.

The gunmen, searching Linfoot's pockets, found an Italian war souvenir revolver.

"You in this racket too?" they asked.

Assured he wasn't, the trio pushed the two into the auto trunk and fled. Linfoot got away and telephoned police.

When he got back, his car was gone, too.

Smart Set Wellesley Nuptials

By BETTY ALDEN

TWO OF Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Thacher's daughters who are far from home will be more eager than ever to receive mail from home and newspaper clippings this week so they may read all about their sister Sally's wedding yesterday.

Nancy Thacher is taking her junior year at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and Lee, the oldest sister, is now Mrs. Richard L. Tevis and living in San Francisco.

Sally became the bride of John Austin Amory of Dedham in St. Andrew's Church, Wellesley, and afterwards the couple received the best wishes of their friends at a reception at the Thachers' home in Sherborn.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore her paternal grandmother's ivory brocade gown and a tulle veil caught to a rose point lace cap with a circle of orange blossoms. She carried stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Richard L. Tevis

Rose Gardner of Brookline, was maid of honor and bridesmaids Mrs. Kenneth Howes, Chestnut Hill, and Louise Perkins, New Bedford. They wore powder blue faille and carried coral geraniums.

Osborne Howes of Chestnut Hill was best man and his brother Kenneth an usher together with Philip and Richard Cutler, cousins of the groom, Gordon Baird, John Maynard, John Stanton and William Fitz.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Roger Amory, and a Harvard '46 alumnus. Sally made her debut in 1943-44 and graduated from the Cadet nursing school at Massachusetts General Hospital. They will live in Sherborn.

AN EXHIBIT of color photographs by the photographer to the Royal Swedish family will open the season at the Boston Architectural Center, 16 Somerset st., Beacon Hill. Proceeds of the exhibit of art by Benno Movin-Hermes will benefit the educational needs of the Center.

A tea celebrating the opening of the exhibit will take place next Friday afternoon for Architectural Center members and their families. Pourers will be Mrs. Ralph W. Gray, Mrs. James Lawrence, Jr., and hostesses Mrs. Lawrence B. Anderson, Mrs. H. Daland Chandler, Mrs Josiah H. Child, Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Mrs. Robert Minot, Mrs. Hugh Stubbins, Jr., Mrs. Harold Walker and Mrs. William Wurster.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Nancy Thayer Patten to Frederick J. DeVeau of Groton and New York is of great interest to Boston society. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas F. Davies of "Edgecombe," Lenox, and the late William S. Patten of Boston. She made her debut here at the beautiful old Beacon st. mansion of her grandmother the late Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer. She is a member of the Regency Club in New York and a former member of the Vincent Club.

Miss Patten is executive secretary of the Museum of the City of New York. During the war she served in the Italian department of the U. S. Bureau of Censorship in New York. Her brother, William S. Patten of Boston is attached to the American Embassy in Paris.

Mr. DeVeau is an instructor at Groton School. He graduated from Harvard in 1918 and is also an alumnus of Harvard Law School. He belongs to the Country Club, Brookline, Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York and the Lenox Club.

Sunday School Class Greets 'Miss America'

The Memphis State College senior, who returned home Wednesday after a brief tour, picked up where she had left off with her church activities — teaching the class and leading the church choir.

'Desire Me' Disappoints

By PEGGY DOYLE

Greer Garson's back but tedium's got her. Absent from the screen 19 months since she appeared with Clark Gable in his disappointing first-picture-of-the-war, "Adventure," Metro's titian-haired star is now to be seen in "Desire Me" on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

"Desire Me," from me to you, is a heavy-handed, frankly uninspired play on the old Enoch Arden theme. Although she has been informed that her husband has been killed by the Germans, Miss Garson, after five years, continues to believe that her husband is still alive.

However, even her certainty is upset when a fellow-prisoner in a German prison camp arrives and tells how he saw her husband die and then proceeds to woo her for himself.

Miss Garson looks appropriately sad while grieving over the death of Robert Mitchum, her husband who is seen very briefly in the picture. When the prison camp dissembler, Richard Hart, arrives on the scene, she is glamorously bright-eyed.

Richard Hart, who was seen in Cambridge Summer Theater productions in the past several seasons, proves himself a definite personality in "Desire Me," although he is hardly at an advantage in this, his initial screen appearance.

Casey Robinson, a Hollywood director who should know better, adapted the Leonard Frank novel, from which Marguerite Roberts and Zoe Akins did the script, for the screen. Since directional credits are missing, it is difficult to determine whether the unnamed directors or the director are to blame for the film's curiously unrewarding quality.

Cop Talks Man Out of 5-Story Plunge While Hundreds Watch

While a crowd of 500 gazed upward in awe, an easy-going, portly policeman talked a young man out of leaping five stories to his death from the roof of a five-story tenement block in Columbus ave., South End, early today.

Hero of a 45-minute flirtation with death was Patrolman James Mooney, who finally convinced a 29-year-old man that "there is a lot to life; you ought to give it another try."

In the darkness of the rooftop, Mooney and Patrolmen John Petitti and John Dame had played a cat-and-mouse game with the would-be suicide, trying to halt his perilous tiptoeing along the cornice of the 50-foot high structure.

HOLD LIFE-NET

Meanwhile, firemen of Ladder 13 moved along the sidewalk with a life-net, always holding it under the approximate spot where the youth boasted he would land.

To a throng of cafe patrons and passersby that rapidly gathered, the man pointed toward the sidewalk and shouted,

"Watch me all you want now, I am going to jump in a minute, anyway, and then you'll really see something."

Several times he teetered on the edge of the cornice, but each time fell backward. Whenever the trio of police came close to him, he would run to the roof edge and threaten to plunge.

TOSSES PEBBLES

Frequently, he hurled handfuls of roofing pebbles on the crowd and shouted,

"Do you think I would kill myself if I jumped?"

As the tension mounted Officer Mooney kept up a running stream of conversation, trying to sooth the youth "and put some sense into his head."

Finally the young man abruptly turned to Mooney and gave himself up.

At the Warren ave. station he refused to give his name, but told the desk lieutenant he had a wife living in Amesbury. Just before he was taken to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation he turned to Officer Mooney and promised.

"You'll hear from me later."

College Upsets Have Frank Leahy At Bewildered

Frank Leahy

By FRANK LEAHY
Head Coach, Notre Dame

There were so many startling upsets and frightening displays of unexpected power in college football Saturday you'd think Cookie Lavagetto was hitting in our league. For us pulled prognosticators it was a Mexican stand-off; we lost as fire predictions, but escaped with our lives.

How about Texas almost chasing North Carolina out of what is left of the Confederacy with that stunning 34-0 victory, Georgia turning L. S. U. every way but loose with a 35-19 aerial outburst, Vanderbilt tripping Alabama, 14-7, Northwestern outlasting U. C. L. A., 27-26, Purdue topping Ohio State 24-20, and Illinois getting back in stride over Iowa, 35-12. We are as dizzy as the scoreboard custodians.

Thankgoodness good old Slippery Rock Teachers came through with a 21-6 triumph over Indiana Teachers of Pennsylvania to leave some semblance of sanity in the wild day.

Wally Butts Merits Bow

Our new fall chapeau, which absorbed quite a bit of honest perspiration while those Pittsburgh Panthers made it more than interesting for Notre Dame in the first half, goes off to Wally Butts of Georgia. Wally really did a magnificent job in bringing his Bulldogs back to a fighting pitch after their defeat by North Carolina. And in beating L. S. U. he defeated a truly fine outfit, make no mistake about that.

We also doff our hat to Coach Blair Cherry of Texas. Blair is in his first year with the "T" formation and the way the Longhorns are handling it you'd think they were born with a "T" in their saddle pants.

Previous to this season Texas had been strictly a single wing and powerhouse aggregation. But in Bobby Layne, Cherry has a quarterback aerialist who can part your hair from 10 paces.

If I keep talking about the dear old Southland I'll begin sounding like Amos 'n' Andy. But before leaving that section I'd like to toss congratulatory waves toward Coach Red Sanders of Vanderbilt and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech. Sanders, who is called "Red" because his hair is so black with maybe a tinge of gray, followed his amazing upset of Northwestern with a fine win over the Crimson Tide. Dodd's flasky Engineers continued toward top ranking nationally with a convincing 20-0 victory over Tulane.

Boston University On Upsurge

Michigan's crushing 49-13 defeat of Stanford just about taps the Wolverines for the Rose Bowl. In the final game of 1946, Michigan crushed Ohio State, 58-6. They led off this season with a 55-0 rout of Michigan State. That's power any way you look at it.

Harvard's 19-14 victory over Boston University stamps this year's Crimson as a very representative ball club indeed. The Terriers are a determined group and are definitely on the upsurge, but Harvard put over the clincher with Emil Drvaric's 27-yard field goal late in the third period. Sounds like old times at Cambridge.

Lou Little's Columbia Lions again came off the deck after trailing Navy by a touchdown midway in the second period to win, 13-6. If Lou does it with mirrors I wish he'd tell me where I could purchase some of same.

And before closing shop for the day I'd like to congratulate Mike Milligan for the really outstanding job he did with his Pittsburgh Panthers in the first half against us. We came on to win, 40-6. But the pay-off scoring took place in the final half. Milligan's men taught us a lesson I hope we'll remember in that first half.

Some of the teams we picked last Saturday must be still running—in the wrong direction—but as soon as the returns come in from all precincts we promise to let you know the results.

Meanwhile, who threw that flower pot from the back of the hall?

Slaughter, Marion, Russell May Play for Braves in '48

JACK CONWAY

The Braves have completed a deal which will make them a strong contender for the National League pennant in 1948. Official announcement of the details will be made tonight, according to General Manager John Quinn.

While no names of the players have yet been given out, it was learned from reliable sources that the Braves have been trying to secure Enos Slaughter, outfielder, and Slats Marion, shortstop, from the St. Louis Cardinals. They also have been seeking the services of Jim Russell, outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Early last month, there were reports that there was talk of the deal which would involve Johnny Hopp and other Braves' players going to Brooklyn for Pete Reiser. The report also stated that Reiser was agreeable about coming to Boston.

The Braves management has been seeking a shortstop and an outfielder since last summer. None of the Braves shortstops have come up to expectations while there has been a weakness in the outfield.

Jim Russell is a switch-hitter and a first-class outfielder. Enos Slaughter is rated one of the greatest outfielders in baseball.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves has placed every one of his players on the trading block with the exception of Bob Elliott, third baseman; Earl Torgeson, first baseman; Connie Ryan, second baseman, and pitchers Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn.

Even Phil Masi, catcher, will be used as trading material if necessary.

Lou Perini, Guido Rugo and Joseph Maney, the three little steamshovels who have made the Braves such a big success believe that their latest move will help the Braves.

If the Braves are able to get they will be in a strong position to win the pennant next year.

Joe McCarthy, new Sox manager on the other hand will have to bolster up positions like third base, first base and the pitching mound if the Sox are to battle such clubs like the Yankees and Tigers. The Braves decided to delay any announcement of trade until the World Series is ended but will do so tonight.

Casey Outstanding Relief Pitcher in Series

By HUCK FINNEGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 — Joe Page the most valuable player in the American League? Joe Page the greatest relief pitcher Bucky Harris ever saw? Bucky had said so, but if he were correct his Yanks wouldn't be playing Brooklyn in the seventh and deciding game of the World Series today. (Bevens, with two days' rest, vs. Gregg.) They'd have the World Series all wrapped up.

Page entered the scene in the fifth inning of the Sunday game, won by the Dodgers 8-6. Because Page is left-handed, Burt Shotton yanked left-hand batting Eddie Hermanski and substituted Eddie Miksis in left field. Miksis finished Saturday's game at second base. He bats right-handed.

Page had a 5-4 lead entering the sixth inning, and it looked as if the Yanks were undisputed world champions because they had overcome a 4-0 Brooklyn lead and gone ahead. The Dodgers were supposed to fold up. Page was supposed to coast in.

He didn't. Edwards greeted him with a single to open the sixth. Furillo doubled. Pinch-hitter Lavagetto's fly scored Edwards. Pinch-hitter Bobby Bragan's double scored Furillo. Stanky kept the rally alive with a single, took second when catcher Robinson juggled Berra's throw to the plate. And Bo-Bo Newsom relieved Page. Reese rescued both Bankhead (running for Bragan) and Stanky with a single (runs charged against Page) and the Dodgers were ahead 8-5.

Because Drews was the Yankee pitcher in the sixth, left-handed batting Al Gionfriddo replaced Miksis in right field, and there is the big story of the game.

In the Yankees' half of the sixth, Stirnweiss (walk) was on second, Berra (single) on first, with two out and Joe DiMadge at the plate.

It looked like the Yank's game for a moment because DiMadge put everything he had into his swing and drove a Branca pitch in the visitors' bull pen gate in left field, 415 feet distant from the plate.

"Home run, tie ball game!" roared the record crowd of 74,065. But rabbit-like Gionfriddo, near the foul line only 330 feet from the plate, started racing back like a rabbit at the crack of the bat, reached the bull pen gate simultaneously with the ball, leaped two feet in the air, gave a half twist, and there was the ball in the webbing of his glove.

It was a catch only an extremely fast man could make, and though Shotton said Miksis is footy and might have caught up with it, nobody agreed with him. And Gionfriddo was playing only because southpaw Joe Page was shellacked.

Everybody did agree with Shotton, however, when he said: "Guess this series has proved that Casey is a better relief pitcher than Page. We've hammered Page all over the lot, and they haven't done a thing with Casey."

This was advertised as a Page-Casey series, recall.

Page relieved Shea in the opening game and pitched the last four innings. He had a 5-1 lead when he took over, gave up four hits, two runs and one walk as the Yanks won 5-3.

He pitched three innings in the 9-8 game the Dodgers won. He didn't allow a run but was hit safely in each inning and made a wild pitch and the Dodgers teed off on him yesterday to square the series.

Casey allowed one hit, no runs in the last two innings of the opener. He stopped the Yanks cold in the third game after they had shellacked Hatten and Branca. He allowed only one hit in 2 2-3 innings and was given credit for the victory.

BULLETIN

YANKEE STADIUM, Oct. 6 —The weather man promised perfect weather—sun, a blue sky and temperatures in the middle seventies. It was expected that Hal Gregg would pone as pitcher for the Dodgers and Bill Bevens for the Yankees.

Forgotten Gionfriddo Bursts Out as Real Hero for Dodgers

By HUCK FINNEGAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Al Gionfriddo is 25, stands 5-6 and weighs 165 ("About same size as Rizzuto," he says). He was born in Dysart, Pa., near Altoona. He attended high school in Cresson, Pa., and was credited with running the 100 in 10 flat. (Looks as if he could do it today.)

His nickname is "GI." He didn't mine coal like his father "but I did work as a fireman on the railroad." He was in the Army nine months in '43, was discharged because of a ruptured stomach.

Pirates purchased him from Albany in '44 and he came to Brooklyn in the deal for Kirby Higbe. He was that "extra player" Rickey always insists on, and that one catch he made of Joe DiMadge earned his and several other players' salaries. It sent the series into seven games which means another $327,659.70 (net) gate, and even Larry MacPhail is happy. It is the first $2,000,000 series in history.

Harry Hooper's catch of Larry Doyle's "home run" in the 1912 World Series is supposed to rank with that of Terry Moore off Joe DiMaggio in the '42 series as the best of these October classics, but Gionfriddo's was every bit as spectacular and valuable.

It gives the Dodgers a chance for the winner's end of the World Series cash, and the check will be a whopper.

"I caught the ball about a foot from the fence," said Gionfriddo. "I hit the fence just after I made the catch. Yes, it would have gone into the bull pen for a home run." He had streaked some 85 or 90 feet to make the catch.

"Hap" Chandler

By BILL CORUM

Much as some of us regret the fact, it just seems impossible for baseball to be happy under the direction of "Happy" Chandler. Underlying this whole series has been a feeling of disquiet and misunderstanding a story behind the story of the games—that is most unfortunate.

To start with, there is the matter of the commissioner's unusually heavy demand for series tickets.

This has been felt worse in Brooklyn, because of the small park there and the bitterness of the regular fans whose requests were denied. Many of these requests that were turned down were post-marked as early as was possible after it was announced that series reservations were being accepted.

This has put Branch Rickey in a tough spot with his regular customers. Customers who are famous for being the best and most loyal in baseball. All told, I believe, the Brooklyn club has had to return around $3,000,000.

Now this happens every time a World's Series is played and is a problem to which there will be no answer until somebody invents a rubber stadium. It happened under Landis and Mr. Chandler is no more responsible for it than was the Judge.

But there is a difference. Whereas Landis never took more than 20 or 30 World Series tickets, Chandler's quota now runs well up into the hundreds and grows with each year that he is commissioner.

To make this relatively small matter even more annoying in the eyes of certain club owners, some of the commissioner's tickets have gone to politicians, whose own original requests had been turned down by the club in their home town.

In other words, the clubs by whom the commissioner is employed have failed to make good. But he has made good with the tickets he has exacted from the competing clubs in the series, and that they would not exact.

You Can Never Know Who'll Sit in a Seat

The commissioner may never have thought of it, being comparatively new to his job and seemingly getting newer to it every day, but tickets have a way of getting into strange hands. And the more of them he hands out the less he will know about who is going to sit in the seats.

It is farfetched but entirely possible, as these things happen, that a photographer might come along and snap a picture of Memphis Engleberg and Connie Immerman sitting in a couple of seats that had been allotted to "Happy."

That surely would be the cream of the jest. Yet, I repeat, that there is no guarantee against it.

Just who has occupied the seats that the commissioner bought for this series? This bureau doesn't know, or care. But one of the reasons that Chandler is presumed to have suspended Durocher is that Leo was not as Caesar's wife in the matter of his associations.

Leo was friendly with George Raft and Georgie was said to be an intimate of what we shall call "the boys."

Well now, the chap who is the most prominent figure in the commissioner's own box at the series got a little "rubbing up" at one time from what was reported to be "the boys" in Chicago. Just another of those "boys will be boys" affairs, one supposes.

And yet, isn't there an ancient maxim of some kind about sauce for the goose? And wasn't the direct incident that led to Durocher's suspension predicated on the anguished demand of Branch Rickey to know if there was a double standard in baseball?

I happen to like the fellow I'm talking about. He's amiable and pleasant and I, personally, know nothing whatever against him.

He, along with Mrs. Chandler, Teddy Hayes and others, "electioneered" for "Happy" with me before the gentleman was named commissioner.

All I can say for sure about him is that the way he was gaining promotions in the Army, it's a good thing the war was over when it was or he would have outranked Eisenhower.

Can He Withold Durocher's Share?

Another tricky and possibly dynamite-laden question facing the gentleman from Cincinnati is the handling of the series share that was voted to Durocher by the Brooklyn players. Or, to put it another way, he has allowed it to become a controversial problem when a simple and direct answer would have settled it at once.

There is a doubt in many minds as to whether the commissioner has a right to withhold this money from Leo. It's the money of the players of the Brooklyn team and the practice in baseball has been to permit the players to divide it as they wish.

The players want to give it to Durocher. Even some of those not overly friendly with him feel that he earned it. Furthermore, if it has any bearing, he earned it in training camp and before he was suspended. Therefore to withold it might seem to be a further and retroactive punishment for something for which Durocher already has been punished.

To be sure the commissioner of baseball always has operated on what, for want of a better term, might be called a sort of divine right. Not by legal right. Legal right is one of the most dangerous questions in baseball. One from which even Landis tried his utmost to steer clear.

Chandler could have ducked this one simply by saying: "How the players dispose of their money is their business," and turned his back. But he didn't.

So that now it intrudes into the several controversies that are raging under cover in connection with the series. And, most important, doing baseball as a whole no good.

Yanks Never Won 7th World Series Battle

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Yanks never have won a seventh game in a World Series, and faced a titanic job winning today's game without Lindell. The big leftfielder was forced to leave Sunday's game in the fourth inning. He had fractured a rib sliding into second in Saturday's ninth inning, was so happy over Shea's victory he didn't realize the seriousness of the injury. He started Sunday's game, made two hits in two AB's, drove in a run before the pain drove him out. His overall average for the Series is an even .500 with nine hits in 18 AB's and seven RBI's. He is the Series' leader in hits and RBI's.

The game lasted 3 hours, 19 minutes, longest in history. It started at 2 p. m. (Sunday law) and it was so dark after seven innings the umpires conferred with Commissioner Chandler about turning on the lights. "Wish he had ordered them on the first of the ninth," said Bucky Harris. "We batted last. Might have made a big difference if Brooklyn's half of the inning had been long. Fortunately, it wasn't."

Records, records, records, Yanks tied record for most pitchers used in World Series game (six), Reynolds, Drews, Page, Newsom, Raschi and Wensloff worked in that order, and that is scraping the bottom of the barrel—Dodgers used their usual four pitchers, giving them a total of 22 for six games . . . Walker leaped high to catch Henrich's drive just as it was entering the right field stands, a marvelous catch. But because it came in the eighth, after Gionfriddo's life-saver, you probably won't hear about it. Henrich, incidentally missed a home run by a foot (foul) in the sixth. And lefty Joe Hatten side-armed him.

Pictures on N. Y. tabloids show Jackie Robinson sliding into second with Rizzuto in horizontal position two feet off the ground. Robinson hit him a terrific smash which seemed totally unnecessary because Rizzuto had got his throw away in time to complete the double play. Rizzuto was "out" some time and Robinson was booed roundly.

Now here is a startling statement by Robinson: "I didn't slide at all. I went in standing up because I thought Rizzuto had tossed the ball to Stirnweiss. If I had slid Rizzuto could have jumped over me." Now there is no reason for Robinson to lie about proceedings. Perhaps in all the excitement he didn't realize he was sliding, but he sure enough did, and he hit Rizzuto so hard it seemed Rizzuto would be out like Lindell. The boys are sliding hard at the keystone sack. There is little love lost between the teams.

More records: number of pitchers used in series game 10, previous mark was 9, held by '29 A's-Cubs and '45 Cubs-Tigers; number of players used in series game 21; previous record was 19 "We're breaking a lot of records we ought to be ashamed to break," said Joe Di But the attendance record didn't annoy Joe or any other player. They know the owners are getting more than their share.

Dodgers put up a terrific screech in the fourth when Ump. Rommel (at first) failed to signal whether Berra's smash was foul or fair. Plate Ump. Pinelli ruled it fair, Stanky put up such a beef he might get fined for it. He charged Romel. He tossed down his glove and kicked it. He threw down his cap. His wails outdid the fans' din. Recall Frank Crosetti was suspended a few years back for creating an "unnecessary" scene in a World Series. He was allowed to finish the series but couldn't play for a time the next spring. Brooks players retort: "Rommel is the one that should be fined." Berra's hit drove in the run that put the Yanks ahead 5-4."

Stirnweiss pulled a "rock" in the third when he tried to go from first to third on Henrich's hit to center and was cut down by a Furillo-Jorgensen throw. Since the Yanks were trailing 3-1 at the time and there was only one out with Lindell and DiMaggio coming up there was no excuse for it. Additionally so, because Furillo's arm is in a class with those of Slaughter and Northey. Yanks scored four runs in the frame, chased Lombardi, but might have scored more. As it turned out, they needed more.

Kansas State Should Provide Tuneup for B. C.

Idle last week-end, the Boston College Eagles will swing back into action Friday night at Braves Field, meeting the Kansas State Wildcats in their second game of the season.

Not too powerful, Kansas State, nevertheless, will provide Denny Myers charges an excellent tune-up for what promises to be their most crucial game, Louisiana State University on Oct. 17.

The opener against Clemson (32-22) gave Myers an opportunity to see what certain candidates could do. The B. C. line was impregnable, yielding minus one yard to the opposition. With guard Victor Palladino of Watertown and tackle Chet Lipka of Lowell back on the active list the forward wall has been bolstered even further.

A Grade A seat back was uncovered in diminutive Joe Diminick and the sophomore speedster's running mate Bob Palladino also proved to be a better than average ball toter. With backs such as Jim Benedetto, Al Cannava, Maurice Poissant, Jackie Farrell, Willie De Rosa and Bernie Lanoue to share the ball carrying chores the Heightsmen have an abundance of capable leather luggers.

Everybody is asking

"Why can't I get more Budweiser?"

IT'S COMING!

Time and again we have enlarged the world's largest brewery. The present expansion program is the largest ever. But we can't ship you these additional trainloads of Budweiser without expanding our presnet network of railroad trackage. Supplying your demand for Budweiser has required us to build private railroad yards bigger than the terminal facilities of many major cities.

Although we are producing and shipping more Budweiser than ever before, it is scarce because more people are demanding it than ever before. They demand it because every drop of Budweiser contains the quality that over the years has made it the most popular beer in history.

Meanwhile, we are distributing Budweiser equitably to thousands of dealers throughout America. It seems that people no longer ask for beer... they ask for Budweiser.

Yanks Lose But Flash Two Capable Quarters

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

The fact that the Boston pro football Yanks lost the game to the Detroit Lions yesterday (21-7) and looked very bad indeed in doing so, is a secondary feature. The big news of the Sabbath Fenway Park grid tilt was the unleashing of two very fine quarterback prospects—Frank "Boley" Dancewicz of the Yanks and Clyde LeForce of the Lions.

On the books of every one of the 19,580 cash customers Paul Governali, ex-Columbia passing great, is the second string man in the Yanks lineup come the Pittsburgh game next Sunday. These same customers stood around in groups after the Lions game and moved widely heralded Roy Zimmerman, 1946 National Football League passing champ when with the Eagles, to the secondary position. LeForce and Dancewicz were that good.

Imagine LeForce, playing in his third professional game taking the limelight from Zimmerman! Zim failed to connect in three passing attempts. His choice of plays was inadequate. His kicking alone stood out during the game. LeForce completed eight of 19 tries for 153 yards. One was a 25-yard pass to Bill Dudley. Dudley made this pass look even better for he ran a remaining 41 yards for a TD. Another was a smart lateral to Dudley which started a Dudley to Cook TD toss.

Dancewicz has always been a great football player. But he never glistened like yesterday. We knew "Boley" when we were together at Notre Dame in 1942. We were in Zahm Hall. Boley was next door in St. Edwards Hall. Frank Leahy never checked Dancewicz in late for practice. Leahy never saw him leave early. But Boley was playing behind Bertelli and Lujack. Quite an assignment to break into that twosome.

It was not until Bert and Lujack had left Notre Dame that Dancewicz got his chance. He made good on that occasion, too, as sports writers all over the nation named him a unanimous All-American choice. Now he has his chance to duplicate with the pro-Yanks.

Clipper Smith was happy to see Dancewicz connect with eight of 10 tosses including the lone Yanks touchdown pass.

"Since I have been with the Yanks," said Smith, "Dancewicz has been as conscientious as any ballplayer on the entire squad. He learned well at Notre Dame for while with us he has never been late, left early or missed a practice."

Providence Rollers Stage Rally to Win 23-6

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 6 (AP) — The Providence Steam Roller football team came back strong in the second half, scoring two touchdowns and a 39-yard field goal by Rocky Uguccioni for a 23 to 6 victory over the Fall River Lions in a New England Pro Conference game before 4500 last night at Cranston Stadium.

Bob Roberge went 45 yards for the Roller's first quarter touchdown, while Tom Dorsey, ex-Brown star, traveled 30 yards with an intercepted pass for one of Providence team's third period scores.

Amazing Upsurge of BU Talk of Football World

By BILL GRIMES

Irrespective of the Northwestern win over the Uclans, Duke's victory against Tennessee, the setbacks handed Alabama and Ohio State by Vanderbilt and Purdue, respectively, and all other upsets, the Boston University Terriers, in defeat, made the farthest advance into the national collegiate picture over the week-end.

Northwestern wasn't given an outside chance of taking U.C.L.A. But, the "Nu" did by the scantest of margins, 27 to 26. A fourth string back, Jules Siegle, by name, who had never played in a varsity game, completed a 38-yard pass for the winning touchdown, on the first and only play he was in the contest.

Wally Wade's Blue Devils of Duke, hung a 19 to 7 defeat on Tennessee, at Knoxville, thereby chalking up their first victory on the Vols' home field. Coach Robert Neyland is off to a poor start this season. The defeat by Duke was the second his Vols have suffered this season. A week ago, they were knocked off by Bobby Dodds' "Ramblin' Wrecks," in Atlanta. "Wolves" around the Southeastern Conference "Loop" have been waiting for an opportunity to crack down on Neyland for years and unless Tennessee starts rolling, they'll be nipping at his heels.

The Vanderbilt Commodores, who took a 3 to 0 decision from Northwestern a week ago, pinned a 14 to 0 defeat on Alabama's Crimson Tide, while the Boilermakers of Purdue, who meet the B. U. Terriers one week from Saturday at Fenway Park, took Ohio State 24 to 20.

If Harvard and B. U. played a repeat performance this week, the game would pack the Stadium. In fact, over the week-end, Boston University definitely emerged from the "sticks." The pre-game program—the parade with its floats and the rally at the Arena, proved conclusively that B. U. is football minded. But, when a helicopter dropped lightly right on the 50-yard stripe between the halves and Miss Priscilla Cook, a Sargent School girl, from Wellesley, stepped out of the plane, everyone in the Stadium was convinced that B. U. would bear watching in the future. Warren Freeman, an alumnus of B. U. and a real live wire staged the rally and the between the halves program.

It is almost incredible that any green football squad could be developed into as formidable a machine as Boston University sent into the Harvard game.

The better team won but it had to go all out all the way. And, again we say that within two years, the Terriers will be tough for any college eleven to beat.

There are only three seniors on the B. U. squad, Capt. Don Giles, the first string left halfback, Jim Wheeler, a third string quarterback and John McCarthy, a guard replacement, and of the 10 juniors, Bob Hatch and George Ramacroti are the only regulars. Bill Tighe and Larry Kirkman, who are members of the class of 1949 are second string tacks, while Evie Dorr, who was seriously wounded at Iwo Jima, another junior, is a point after touchdown specialist.

Coach "Buff" Donelli has 33 freshmen and sophomores on the varsity squad. Eight freshmen (they enrolled last February) were in action on Saturday. In pre-war days, a sophomore had to be a standout to start any varsity game. But, with the experience they'll acquire this fall and with another year under "Buff" Donelli, the current underclassmen will be varsity timber and the Terriers will be on their way to national fame.

Yale and Dartmouth came through without trouble on Saturday. The Elis were two touchdowns better than Cornell and the Big Green slapped down Syracuse.

Using the "T" almost exclusively, Holy Cross eked out a 19 to 13 win over Temple at Worcester. The Owls were unable to cope with the Crusader line with running plays

CAMELLI CANNED

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Hank Camelli, Braves catcher who was given a car by his home town (Milford) admirers on the last day of the season, has been given an opportunity to drive it across country.

Braves announced today that they are sending him to San Diego in a trade for catcher Frank Kerr. In addition, the Braves will give two other players before next April 1 and will send a fourth on option.

Cleveland Trade Talk Gains Force

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians said yesterday after a quick trip to Cleveland that he believed Tribe fans would be willing for any member of the team to be traded if it would strengthen the club.

He made the comment after flying to the Ohio city to sample public opinion on a report that Manager Lou Boudreau might be traded.

"Some people don't like the idea," Veeck said, "but I get the impression that most of them are willing that I trade Boudreau, Feller, Gordon, Mitchell and anybody else, if it will strengthen the ball club."

He declined to discuss the possibility of the trade, but added:

"It might not be at all, but you can write it in your hat that we aren't going to stand pat on anything less than a pennant winner. We'll trade anybody and everybody if it will help us to win ball games in Cleveland."

Feelers Out for Lion, Notre Dame Game

NE WYORK, Oct. 6 (INS)—International News Service learned today recent Notre Dame "feelers" for an annual Columbia-Notre Dame football game in New York were regretfully rejected.

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach, had "sounded" Lou Little, Columbia coach, on the prospects for such a game as a replacement for the Army-Notre Dame game.

Striped Bass Fishing Approaching Its Peak

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

October's sparkling surf may yet yield a good harvest of striped bass for eager anglers, for the sport is speeding up at several places. Many sportsmen believe that this is the best time of year to fish. Cool weather and bright sunshine are an ideal combination; they provide the basic elements of autumn angling, together with favorable winds that stir up the waters and the bass. No, this is hardly the period to stow away gear. Remember, the world's record striper on rod and reel—a 73-pound whopper—was caught in November!

"The fall run of striped bass seems to be swinging into action," says "Sarge" Sargent, owner of the Goose Hummock Shop, at Orleans. "Big catches are being made all the way from High Head, in Truro, and along Nauset Beach to Chatham. Bait fishing, squidding with tin jigs and plugs, and surf casting are all effective."

This outdoorsman adds that fishing in Cape Cod Bay has slowed down, since the fish are schooling and moving along the outer shores of the Cape . . . Henry DeLory, Wellfleet, took no less than 18 bass, however, last week, using seaworms at Ryder's Beach, and he also hauled in 38 more specimens from the Beach near Newcombe's Hollow, in Wellfleet.

At Nauset Light, D. Babineau, of Dennis, tied into 26, averaging from 15 to 25 pounds each . . . Carl Lund, Orleans, hooked two 30-pounders, off the Orleans parking space, employing a Pt. Judith wobbler . . . "Sarge," too, brought home over 30 stripers last week, all taken with this same lure.

ANGLING ANGLES: Bluefish, rainging from four to five pounds apiece, are hitting metal jigs, long Nauset Beach . . . Bottom fishermen have been boating those large fall flounders in Town Cove and Nauset channel . . . "Snappy Weather" hasn't discouraged the snapper blues, which are still biting for light tackle enthusiasts, in Meeting House pond and river, at Orleans.

Howard Leonard, secretary of the Martha's Vineyard Rod and Gun Club, sponsor of the island's big Striper Derby, which runs until Oct. 15, sends word that large bass are hitting at every spot in the vicinity . . . More than 1500 contestants have actually entered this finny fray.

Play That Saved Brooklyn—Al Gionfriddo, Dodger substitute left fielder (arrow at top left), turns his back to the plate and starts for the 415-foot-mark rail separating the Brooklyn bullpen from playing field to grab Joe DiMaggio's bid for a home run in the sixth inning. Two men were out. Jolting Joe hammered the drive toward the bullpen. It appeared to be a homer, tying the score. But little Joe leaped high into the air after racing 100 feet. He caught the drive and held it. They'll play the all-important game to decide the world's championship today at Yankee Stadium.
